Nutrition Center services

Hot lunches, nutrition education, blood pressure checks, and nursing service are available at the Upland Nutrition Center for Senior Citizens in temporary quarters at Upland Presbyterian Church, 11th Street and Euclid Avenue. Larry Sepulveda is site manager for the service which provided more than 2,000 hot meals in February. Meals are served 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. weekdays with musical entertainment accompanying meals. Nursing service, blood pressure check, and nutrition education is available 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Thursdays. Senior information and referral services for Medicare, Social Security, income tax and other needs are provided 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. For information on the center call Muriel Van Vorst, 983-0775, ext. 23, 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Band concert

Upland High School symphonic band will perform at the first of six open-air concerts 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the Upland Memorial Park band shell. Greg Sisk directs the 100-member band which will perform show tunes, popular songs, and classical music in the free family concert. Spectators are encouraged to bring blankets to sit on. The program is sponsored by the Upland Recreation Department and Chaffey College with assistance from the Upland Host Lions Club, Upland Rotary Club, Upland Woman's Club, and Upland Junior Women's Club.

Home rehabilitation loans

Home rehabilitation loans are available to low and moderate-income homeowners through the city of Upland and the San Bernardino County Office of Community Development. To be eligible for the low-interest home improvement loans, applicants must have been an Upland resident for a year, must own the home, and must meet low or moderate-income standards. Applications are available from the Upland Recreation Department, 123 E. D St. or the Upland Housing Authority, 1248 N. Campus Ave.

Children's film program

Upland Public Library will present a free film program for children 3:15 and 4 p.m. Wednesday, March 30. The show will include a Superman cartoon, "Dirty Work," a Laurel and Hardy comedy, and "Paul Bunyan," a folk tale in color. Seating is limited. Free tickets are available in the library's children's section the day of the performance.

Award competition

Two Upland residents will compete in areawide college division competition for Bank of America achievement awards Tuesday at Mt. San Antonio College. Patricia Roney will represent Chaffey College in business competition and Liselotte van Balgooy will represent Chaffey College in social sciences-humanities competition. Scholastic records, citizenship, leadership, community service and participation in a discussion will all be considered in naming area winners who will compete for top awards May 4.

Bicycle motocross

Upland Recreation Department will conduct the monthly bicycle motocross race for boys and girls, 6 years and older, 9 a.m. Saturday. Youngsters compete for trophies in three divisions: novice, junior, and expert. Requirements to participate are: a bicycle (MX-type), a helmet, long pants and the skill to negotiate 'S' turns, 12-foot water jump, and numerous hoop-de-dos. Each entrant is required to have a general-release form signed by a parent or guardian. There is a $1 entry fee. Gates will open 9 a.m. for registration and practice riding.

Sales award program

Chaffey District Camp Fire Girls will honor Uplanders Gina Carallo and Yvonne Harrison at a candy sales award program Tuesday night at Upland High School. The two sold more than 540 boxes of candy each to win bicycles, trips to camps, gift certificates, and charms. Districtwide 598 girls sold more than 45,000 boxes of candy. Pam Bowcock and Anita Lewis coordinated candy sales in Upland.

Coronary care class

Chaffey College will offer a class in basic coronary care for nurses and allied health personnel 5-9 p.m. Wednesdays April 6-June 22 at San Antonio Community Hospital. Registration will be taken 9 a.m.-9:30 p.m. March 25 and 28-29 at the college and 4-8 p.m. March 25 and 28-31 at the Ontario-Montclair Center. Sandra Gray, R.N., will teach the class which has been approved by the State Board of Registered Nursing and the American Heart Association. For information call allied health coordinator Mary E. Boul, R.N., 987-1737, ext. 232.

Speech contest

Ontario-Upland Toastmasters Dr. Joe Steele and Shaef Gililand will compete in an international speech and tall tales contest 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Holiday Inn, Ontario. Steele will present "Principles of American Democracy" in the speech contest. Gililand will compete in tall tales with "The Peach Tree Deer." Area finalists will participate in statewide competition.

Middle Eastern dinner

Delta Theta Chi Sorority will meet at the Upland home of Mrs. Edward Bordenkircher 6 p.m. tonight for a Middle Eastern dinner in keeping with the sorority's study topic of the Middle East. Mrs. Oren Langley will assist the hostess.

Opening day ceremonies

Upland - Pioneer PONY League will hold opening day ceremonies 1 p.m. Saturday with Upland Mayor George Gibson throwing out the first ball of the season at the Max Hawkins field. Teams sponsored by Woodland Products and Rugg Lumber will play the opening - day game with other teams and sponsors being introduced.

Photographers

Counseling class

California State College, San Bernardino will sponsor a class in counseling theories and techniques 5:15-9:15 p.m. Wednesdays March 30-June 8 at Mountain High Alternative School, Upland. Participants must have taken dynamics of human behavior or must have the consent of the instructor. Fee for the five-unit class is $110. For information contact the college's Office of Continuing Education, (714) 887-7558.

Local planning and development Council works to retain control

By Lynne Locke

Upland City Council Monday night directed the city staff and City Attorney Donald Maroney to investigate ways of ensuring the city retains control over planning and development.

The move came after Maroney told the council the city has been served with a notice that the Santa Ana Regional Water Quality Control Board is considering action to prohibit future sewer connections in the Upland - Ontario - tricomunity area.

The council recently placed a moratorium on accepting subdivision development maps, but the water quality control board action could also limit issuance of building permits, bringing local development to a sudden halt.

Councilman Hal Bailin said the water quality control board's threat to prohibit sewer hook-ups takes control of local development from the City Council, which is elected by the citizens to make such decisions.

"By the next tax bill every taxpayer in the valley will know what the action is costing," he said noting that the land values rise with "artificial moratoriums" and tax assessments rise along with land prices.

"I know of nothing in the law that gives the board permission to control local planning," Bailin said and added, "We ought to stand up and fight."

Maroney said a court action is a possibility on the groups that the water quality control board has acted in "an arbitrary and capricious" manner.

Bailin and Councilwoman Ina Petokas placed responsibility for the threatened building shut down on lack of planning by the county and the Chino Basin Municipal Water District.

"Upland has been planning (for sewage treatment) for many, many years, but the county has done no planning at all. All of a sudden (the sewage crisis) is a big surprise," Bailin said.

Actions of the water quality control board may simply be a "cover-up" for lack of planning or mismanagement by the Chino Basin MWD, he charged and said the cities of Upland and Ontario should consider taking control of the Ontario treatment plant, which had originally belonged to the two cities.

Ontario and Upland contract with Chino Basin MWD to provide all sewage treatment necessary, and Chino Basin MWD has broken that contract if it is unable to process sewage from Upland, Bailin said.

Mrs. Petokas agreed the city may have reasons for charging Chino Basin (MWD with breach of contract but laid more responsibility on former Second District Supervisor Daniel Mikesell, "who should have been aware of the situation" in Upland, Ontario and the tricomunity.

Unfortunately, she said, he is no longer around to face the problems and deal with the situation. Mikesell resigned in the face of recall threats mounted largely by tricomunity residents unhappy with run-away development.

Mrs. Petokas noted the unfairness of affecting an entire area because the county has not controlled development in unincorporated area and suggested that the water quality control board would treat development in Upland in a more lenient manner because the Upland council has taken action to limit growth.

Maroney commented that action by the water quality control board will affect all areas equally and added that a suggestion that Upland should be treated differently "went over like a lead balloon. As far as they're concerned everyone's in the same category."

The water quality control board's April 22 meeting to consider sewage treatment at Regional Plant I will involve two issues:

— Whether Chino Basin MWD should be ordered to "cease and desist" from discharging water which does not meet (or threatens not to meet) water quality standards.

— Whether Chino Basin MWD should be prohibited from making further sewer connections to new homes and businesses.

Planning Commission sets public hearings

Upland Planning Commission 7:30 p.m. tonight will consider three zone changes, four conditional - use permits, and a zoning amendment.

Public hearings include:

— A zone change from highway - commercial and single - family residential to highway - commercial and commercial - professional for 35 acres between Foothill Boulevard and San Bernardino Road west of Grove Avenue.

— A zone change from highway - commercial to multiple - family residential for five acres southeast of Redding Way and Foothill Boulevard.

— A rezoning change from low - density residential to single - family residential (10,000 - square - foot minimum lot size) for 20 acres northeast of Wilson Avenue and the extension of 19th Street. Rezoning changes do not become effective until the area is annexed to the city.

— A conditional - use permit to construct a five-story housing facility for older people on 2.5 acres northwest of San Bernardino Road and Grove Avenue in a proposed commercial - professional zone.

— A conditional - use permit to construct a sit-down and drive-through fast-food restaurant on 1.2 acres northeast of Foothill Boulevard and Mulberry Avenue in a highway - commercial zone.

— A conditional - use permit to establish a food distribution center and redevelop an existing restaurant on 1.6 acres northwest of Foothill Boulevard and 13th Avenue in a highway - commercial zone.

— A conditional - use permit to develop a commercial center on 1.7 acres at the southeast corner of Redding Way and Foothill Boulevard in a highway - commercial zone.

— A zoning amendment regarding directional signs for new commercial and industrial developments.

Students' response good at Foothill Knolls

Teacher emphasizes scientific method

By Lynne Locke

While most elementary school programs are focusing on the basic skills of reading and math, Foothill Knolls teacher Mildred Ray emphasizes the scientific method in her fifth and sixth-grade classroom.

The result: Students experience the scientific world. They begin to enjoy school. They learn to read. And most important, they learn to think, according to Mrs. Ray.

The Upland resident encourages students to use the scientific method in everyday life. Instead of the usual elementary school "show and tell" time, students are encouraged to "observe, research, experiment, conclude and record" everything ranging from rocks found on a family trip to an aquarium of tropical fish.

Emphasizing the scientific method in the classroom may seem harder than simply telling students what they should know, Mrs. Ray said and added, "It depends on your philosophy of education. Helping a child learn to think or simply feeding the material to remember."

"The greatest thing you can do for children is help them learn to think, and the scientific approach to thinking helps a child to experience a sense of the nobility and grandeur of life," she said.

The science program is individualized to provide variety and to allow students to follow their interests which range from simple crystal gardens to high-school-level projects.

The program is also coordinated with other study areas as well as with everyday life. A recent social studies unit on Japan culminated in a scientifically erupting volcano, according to Mrs. Ray who said the experiments usually go "pretty well as expected."

But, she noted the students are always excited by what they see. The formations in a crystal garden, the colors of microscopic object, the reaction of two chemicals, all provide interesting and enjoyable science experiences for the students.

The students definitely respond to the scientific emphasis, Mrs. Ray said noting that a lot of the students don't even want to come to school at the beginning of the semester.

By the first parent conference in October, the parents have seen a change in their children who are now excited about school and bring interesting things to share with the class.

And Mrs. Ray said she had taught non-readers to read through science studies. Students report on each experiment they do by describing the experiment to other class members and also by writing their conclusions.

Mrs. Ray writes down the explanations of non-readers and then uses their own words to show them they can read and write. The non-readers begin to recognize words they used in their oral report and then progress to reading other words.

With all of the emphasis on reading programs, materials are still limited mostly to stories, according to Mrs. Ray who said she would like to write readers about science.

Readers of stories mainly teach word attack and recall skills, and the stories themselves are soon forgotten, she said noting that a science reader would provide interesting new material as well as teaching reading skills.

Mrs. Ray has "always been partial to science" and noted that her favorite area is microscopic organisms which are also popular with students.

Classes especially enjoy making their own slides and then seeing "something alive, something that moves, something, they can't see with the naked eye," she said.

Student interests will result in a classwide science fair for parents 12:45 p.m. April 25 during Public Schools Week.

The Upland teacher hopes her students will continue their scientific interests in junior high and high school. She is also assisting other Foothill Knolls teachers who want to introduce science into their classrooms.

Collections

Upland News carriers will be calling on residents through the next week for collections. Although subscriptions are voluntary, the 60 cents requested per month adds to their monthly earnings and encourage reliable, courteous service.

Area Briefs

Special Olympics

Special Olympics, a nationwide program for mentally retarded children and adults, will be held 9 a.m.-2 p.m. Friday at the Chaffey College football field. Participants will compete on the basis of age and skill level with some representing the West End in areawide Olympics April 15. Local participants will include students at Lincoln Development Center, Linda Vista School, Berni School, and East Avenue School. Activities include the 50-yard dash, 100-yard dash, 200-yard run, 440-yard relay, 440-yard run, 25-yard wheel chair run, softball throw, long jump, and high jump. Local residents are invited to watch the Special Olympics, which are designed to encourage physical fitness among mentally retarded people.

Public meeting

California State College, San Bernardino officials will meet with local residents 5 p.m. March 31 to discuss the possibility of locally offering a master of arts in education with counseling option. Information will be available on degree requirements, classes, fee waivers, and preregistration at the meeting to be held at Vina Danks Intermediate School, 1020 N. Vine Ave., Ontario, room 7.

Tennis tournament

YWCA of Greater Pomona Valley is sponsoring a Tennis Friends Tournament April 11-May 21. Registration and arrangements for the six-week tournament will be handled through the mail with finals being held May 21. Registration deadline for the tournament is March 31. The double-elimination tournament will have divisions for women's single and doubles, mixed doubles, and junior singles in three age groups. All players, beginner to advanced, are invited to participate. For information call 622-1269.

Chaffey registration

Chaffey Community College will hold registration March 25 and 28-29. Appointments are required for registration. Classes available at the Alta Loma campus range from accounting and art to physiology and plastics. A number of classes are also offered at the Ontario-Montclair Center, where registration will be taken on a first-come basis 4-8 p.m. March 25 and 28-31. For information on registration at the Alta Loma campus call 989-1716. For Ontario-Montclair information call 627-7531.

Pilots speaker

Care and operation of airplane engines will be featured at the March meeting of the Pomona Valley Pilots Association 8 p.m. Friday in the Brackett Field pilot's lounge, La Verne. The program is open to the public.

VVE orientation

Volunteer Vital English (VVE) will hold an orientation session for new volunteers 6:30-8:30 p.m. Friday at the United Church of Christ, Congregational, 233 W. Harrison Ave., Claremont. VVE matches volunteers with people who want to learn English. Volunteers do not need to know a foreign language and do not need to have any teaching experience. The volunteer program, coordinated by Margarita Strang, recently received a GEMCO charitable award for its work with non-English-speaking residents.

Volunteers sought

The Senior Companion Program, a pilot 18-month project utilizing senior citizens as volunteers in the care of developmentally disabled clients in West San Bernardino County, has opened a drive for limited-income West End volunteers, 60 years and older. In exchange for the care and companionship they offer their clients, the 10 volunteers will each receive a $1.60 an hour stipend, transportation and one meal a day, according to Senior Companion Program director Barbara Brown of San Bernardino. Working on a one-to-one basis, the Senior Companions will assist persons developmentally disabled by mental retardation, cerebral palsy and epilepsy. Each Senior Companion will serve 20 hours a week, providing reading, letter writing and shopping assistance. Ms. Brown said the new program will provide socially isolated clients with vital outside contact. Applications and information are available at the city of Ontario Human Resources Agency, 217 S. Lemon or by calling 906-1151, ext. 242 in Ontario. A two-week training period matching the new volunteers and their clients is scheduled to begin April 11.

Spring excursions

The Fun After Fifty Club of Upland is inviting retired residents to participate in several spring trips including a visit to Solvang April 14, a trip to the Ice Capades May 15, and a visit to Lawrence Welk's restaurant and Wild Animal Park, Escondido June 9. For reservations or information on costs, call 986-7856 or 985-6760.

Wilderness permits

Beginning April 1, wilderness permits for the Cucamonga, San Geronio and San Jacinto wilderness areas can be obtained by writing or in person 90 days before the planned trip. Phone reservations will be allowed only on the day of entry. Permits are available by writing or in person at:
— Cucamonga wilderness: Lytle Creek Ranger Station, Star Route Box 100, Fontana, CA 92359.
— San Geronio wilderness: Mill Creek Ranger Station, Route 1 Box 264, Mentone, CA 92359.
— San Jacinto Wilderness: Idyllwild Ranger Station, P.O. Box 518, Idyllwild, CA 92349.

Omnitrans gains county loan, waits for subsidy

By PETER WONG

A loan of $350,000 to Omnitrans, the county's bus operator, was approved Monday by the county board of supervisors. The loan will help Omnitrans while it seeks to speed up the federal funds it has been expecting.

The supervisors said little in authorizing the 60-day loan from the county's transportation fund.

The majority, however, appeared to share Supervisor Dennis Hansberger's observation about the loan: "I don't think the cash-flow problem ought to be resolved the way it's being resolved, but I understand that's the way it has to be done."

County Administrative Officer Earl Goodwin told the supervisors the loan could be made safely, "without a negative impact on other potential commitments for these funds."

As the county's bus operator, Omnitrans is the umbrella agency under which the West Valley Transit Service Authority and the San Bernardino Transit System function.

Like all public transportation systems, Omnitrans depends upon federal funds authorized by the 1974 Urban Mass Transportation Act.

The federal funds subsidize up to 50 per cent of the operating costs of a public transportation system and up to 80 per cent of bus purchases and other capital improvement costs.

However, "we are nine months into the (fiscal) year and haven't received any funds at all yet from the government," Paul Marsh, Omnitrans general manager, told the supervisors Monday.

Marsh said the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration had been extremely slow in providing the federal share of Omnitrans operating funds.

(Other operating funds come from the transportation funds of the 11 local governments which are members of Omnitrans. Those funds are raised primarily by a state sales tax on gasoline.)

Furthermore, Omnitrans must pay for 19 additional buses which have already been delivered, Marsh said. Some of the 41-passenger buses are already in service in the West End.

Marsh said this morning that Omnitrans had previously set aside funds to pay its share of the bus purchases — 20 per cent of the total cost.

But those funds, along with money from the transportation funds of local governments, have been used instead to keep Omnitrans operating in the absence of federal subsidies, Marsh said.

When the 19 buses were delivered last month, thus requiring Omnitrans to pay its share of the purchase cost, "that's where the crunch came," Marsh said.

Marsh said the county loan of $350,000 will help pay for the buses, which he expects federal funds for.

However, Marsh told the supervisors, he has learned from federal officials in Washington that Omnitrans cannot expect to receive its federal share of operating funds until about June 30, "so we do have the problem of operating between now and that time," or about three months.

Marsh said the federal payments are supposed to be made quarterly. However, several events — including a change in the federal government's fiscal year (it now starts Oct. 1 instead of July 1) and the transition between administrations — have delayed the payments, Marsh said.

The 11 participating local governments will be asked next week to contribute a total of $1.75 million to help Omnitrans resolve its cash-flow problems and continue operating through June 30, Marsh said.

Goodwin said the county's own loan "is predicated on getting the cities together" for this one-time assessment.

Part of the $1.75 million could be returned to local governments in the future if federal subsidies are paid to Omnitrans "on a more timely basis," Goodwin said in a memorandum to the supervisors.

The county and the cities will be assessed on the amount of mileage currently operated by Omnitrans in their areas.

However, the board of supervisors decided Monday to omit mileage on the cross-valley line between Montclair and Yucaipa from any assessment Omnitrans may calculate.

Cal State, S.B., offers three graduate psychology classes

Three graduate level courses in psychology, covering such areas as death and dying, reading perception and the contributions of Freud, offered this spring at Cal State, San Bernardino, are open to teachers or others who are not psychology majors.

The seminar on "Death and Dying," taught by Dr. Gloria Cowan, associate professor of psychology, will meet from 1 to 2:50 p.m. Wednesdays. The first session is April 6.

The advanced seminar in applied psychology, devoted to Freud, will be a study of his contributions to the field of psychotherapy, according to the instructor, Dr. Mac Easton, associate professor of psychology. The course meets from 6 to 7:50 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning April 5.

Dr. Kathy Pezdek, who is conducting research on the interaction of pictures and words in the memory, will teach the advanced seminar in reading. Dr. Pezdek's research has implications both in the design of textbooks as well as in the teaching of reading. Her class meets from 6 to 7:50 p.m. Wednesdays, beginning April 6.

Individuals interested in taking these courses, but not already enrolled in the college, may still apply for admission for the spring quarter, beginning March 30. Or the courses may be taken through the "open enrollment" program available both from the admissions office and the office of continuing education.

Election set

An election in which 650 Chaffey Joint Union High School District teachers and other certificated employees will select a collective bargaining unit is set for April 20.

Ballots will provide three choices — Associated Chaffey Teachers, CTA-NEA; West San Bernardino County Federation of Teachers, CFT-AFT, and no representation.

WORKSHOP

FRIDAY - APRIL 1st

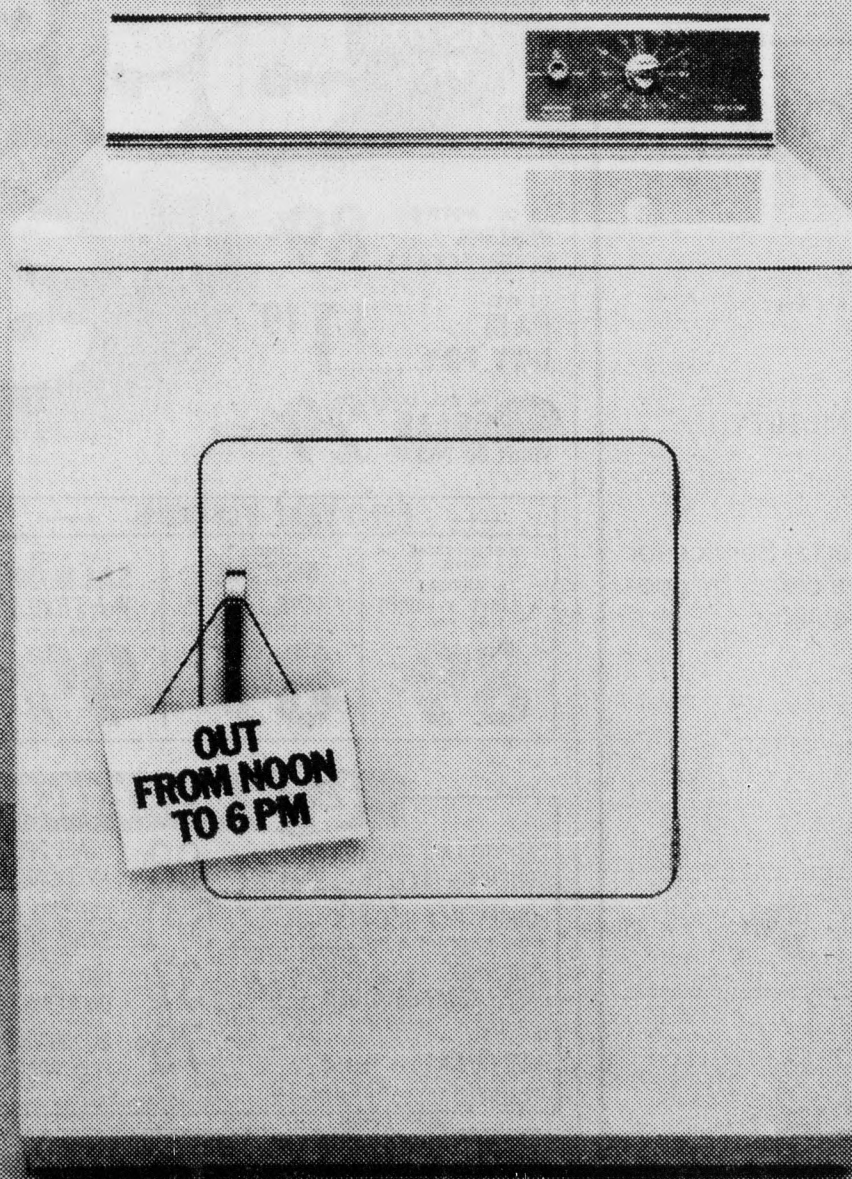

7 PM TO 9 PM

First Assembly Of God

305 E. Arrow Hwy, Pomona

ALL INTERESTED PERSONS WELCOME

GIVE YOUR APPLIANCES THE AFTERNOON OFF.

Most of the electricity we generate is needed by factories, farms and offices — so people can make a living. The greatest demand for this electricity is during the day. You need electricity to run appliances in your home, too. And the greatest demand for this electricity is also during the day.

Here's the problem: Because of the growing demand for electricity during the day, we'll have to build more power plants. And building power plants today is more expensive. That drives up the cost of electricity to everybody.

Now there's something we all can do to help: Spread the use of electricity more evenly around the clock. Edison is working with large industrial customers to help them find ways to shift some of their electric use to the evening hours. But most people prefer to work during the day, so there's only so much industry can do without drastic rescheduling of work shifts.

It's afternoon use of electricity that's the biggest problem. So you can help by doing some of your daily routine at night or in the morning. Perhaps you can wash and dry your clothes at night. Use your dishwasher at night. Iron in the evening. Bake in the morning.

It means changing your routine a bit. But if we do use electricity wisely, it will help to hold down the cost in the future.

The Town Crier

Illegal to grow bean plant

By John Shoemaker
Community Relations Coordinator
City of Upland

QUESTION: Can you tell me why the castor bean plant is against the law to grow? O.T.

ANSWER: It is a noxious plant. Therefore it has been declared that the existence of castor bean oil plants (Ricinus Communis) on public and private property within the city of Upland is a public nuisance and dangerous to the public health and safety of the inhabitants of the city. The castor bean oil plant produces castor beans poisonous in nature which will produce death if eaten or otherwise swallowed. Castor beans are peculiarly attractive to small children.

QUESTION: I am with the Citizens Committee for New York City Inc. We read about your column "The Town Crier." Can you mail me a copy? J.K.

ANSWER: Nice to know that circulation of the newspaper has extended beyond our West End cities. Copies of the column have been sent.

QUESTION: What happens to the unclaimed property the city picks up? W.J.

ANSWER: First, we should define unclaimed property. Unclaimed property means any property found by the police of the city upon the public streets or ways of the city or elsewhere, or any property brought to the Police Department by others, where the owner of the property is unknown; provided, however, that property held as evidence, dangerous weapons or deadly weapons, narcotics or poison drugs, explosives, or any property of any kind whatsoever, the possession of which is prohibited by law as the same are defined in the Penal Code of the State of California shall not constitute unclaimed property as here defined.

All unclaimed property as defined shall be kept by the Police Department, using ordinary care to keep the property safe and to protect the property from the weather. If an owner appears prior to six months from the date the property came into the possession of the Police Department and offers reasonable proof of his or her ownership, and offers to reimburse the city for any storage charges incurred, the property shall be delivered to owner upon his or her payment of the storage charges, if any.

All unclaimed property shall be held by the Police Department for a period of at least six months, unless restitution has been made prior to sale or destruction.

All unclaimed property held for a period of at least six months shall be sold at public auction to the highest bidder, provided that notice of such sale shall be given by the chief of police at least five days before the time fixed by publication at least once in the Upland News. All unclaimed property not sold at such sale and which has no value shall be destroyed by dumping in the Upland city disposal site. All proceeds from the sale of unclaimed property shall be deposited by the chief of police with the city treasurer.

QUESTION: Can you tell our civic class the duties of the library assistant? M.S.

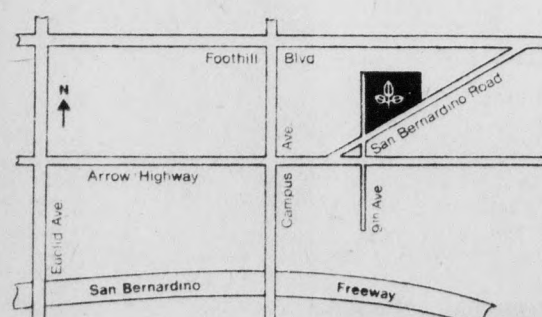

ANSWER: In Upland there are three such positions which are very capably administered by lovely, young ladies: Sandy Fraire, Dorris Cville and Shirley Watts. Under administrative direction they supervise one of the major functional sections of the library, children's section, technical services, or circulation; assist with preparation of departmental budget and selection of new personnel; prepare work schedules for personnel and evaluate employee performance; promote the use of library facilities in the community; prepare activities reports; formulate or participate in the formulation of

Ban temporarily halts local sewer connections

By PETER WONG

Convinced that West End governments must be pressured into agreement on a regional growth control policy, a state agency called a temporary halt Friday to most new connections to a key Ontario sewage treatment plant.

The state's Santa Ana Regional Water Quality Control Board scheduled a formal hearing in April on whether it should impose a longer-lasting ban on new sewer connections in Ontario, Upland and the unincorporated tri-communities of Alta Loma, Cucamonga and Etiwanda.

That fast-growing area is served by the Ontario sewage treatment plant operated by the Chino Basin Municipal Water District. The plant is at capacity now.

Until next month's hearing — tentatively scheduled for April 22 at 9:30 a.m. in Upland City Hall — the board in effect placed a moratorium on the issuance of building permits for major construction projects, including homes.

(Since the board has already imposed a short-term ban on new sewer connections in the area served by the district's Chino plant, the entire West End is now affected by a building moratorium.)

As of Monday the county band cities could continue to issue building permits for major projects only with the understanding that if the state board imposes a longer-term ban on sewer connections April 22, homes and other buildings which require such connections wouldn't be entitled to them.

Since most builders are unlikely to risk their new projects pending the outcome of the board's hearing, few building permits for construction requiring sewer connections will probably be issued in the next month.

Construction for which building permits have already been issued will not be affected by the board's action Friday. Such buildings may be connected to the sewage system served by the Ontario treatment plant.

Meanwhile, the board's action will allow a special county supervisors' committee five weeks to demonstrate substantial progress toward a West End growth control policy.

While board members made it clear they were willing to give the committee a chance to do its work, they said they didn't want a vague promise from local governments to act on a regional growth control policy sometime in the indefinite future.

Furthermore, by waiting without imposing a temporary ban on most new sewer connections, board members felt developers would rush to obtain building permits — thus compounding what the board considers a potentially serious water pollution problem.

That problem could result in a fine of $10,000 daily on the Chino Basin Municipal Water District through 1980, the earliest its Ontario plant can be expanded.

By threatening to impose a longer-term ban on new sewer connections to the Ontario sewage treatment plant — and in effect, a building moratorium in the West End — the state board put pressure on local governments to come up with a regional growth control policy.

Board members were swayed by a presentation describing the thousands of subdivision lots on which homes could be built — particularly in the unincorporated foothill communities — thus adding to the sewage loads which must be treated by the Ontario plant.

"That's an overwhelming picture you present," Ruth B. Anderson, chairman of the regional water quality control board, told County Planning Director Kenneth C. Topping.

After the two-hour hearing in San Bernardino City Hall, Mrs. Anderson said bluntly, "This board means business," in response to building industry spokesmen who previously doubted the board's authority to act.

Until the local governments can come to an agreement on a regional growth control policy, Mrs. Anderson added, "we're willing to let the buck stop here for awhile. We've done it before."

Carolyn Ewing of Yorba Linda, the board member who proposed the April 22 hearing, said local governments need to be told, "Hey, somebody means business."

develop a regional growth control policy by April 20, she said, "I really believe the only reason they are sitting down at the table now is that they hear voices (of the state board) behind them. They hear the train coming down the railroad track."

James Smirl, president of the local chapter of the Building Industry Association, said, "Precipitous action by this board would have an immediate and serious financial impact" upon the West End and the rest of the region.

He urged the board to wait until the committee — which includes representatives of the building industry, cities, water districts and the Municipal Advisory Council for the unincorporated communities — can demonstrate progress toward a regional growth control plan.

Board members sought to pin down how much capacity — if any — is left in the Ontario sewage treatment plant.

The plant was originally built to handle 16 million gallons of waste water daily. However, under today's more stringent treatment requirements, the plant can effectively treat only 14 million gallons per day. (It is treating daily loads of 15.6 million to 16 million gallons.)

James W. Anderson, the state board's executive officer, said the plant was "in marginal compliance" with stringent state standards for the quality of treated waste water — that the plant met the standards on some day and not on others.

The Chino Basin Municipal Water District is seeking millions of dollars in state and federal funds to expand the plant's capacity to 24 million gallons daily.

So far, the district hasn't been able to obtain final approval for the funding it has sought since 1974. Even if funding were approved today, the plant's expansion cannot be completed until 1980 or 1981. Tom Homan, the district's operations chief and assistant general manager, said the district hopes to gain temporary capacity for an additional three million gallons of waste water by dumping into its nonreclaimable waste water line.

That line was built a decade ago to handle poisonous industrial wastes. The waste is treated by Los Angeles County sanitation plants before being dumped into the Pacific Ocean.

Montclair is technically not affected by the board's action of Friday, since its sewerage system will not be connected to the Ontario treatment plant until later this year.

The board will consider a short-term ban on all new sewer connections to the district's Chino plant, which serves Chino and the unincorporated Chino Hills, at a hearing March 30.

Rapid growth in that area has increased the plant's load above its capacity of three million gallons daily, thus deteriorating the quality of treated waste water. It will be expanded this fall to a capacity of five million gallons.

Justice play to be featured

"Number 29-104836," a play about justice, will be presented Wednesday, March 30, at the annual meeting of the West End Family Counseling Service.

The noon meeting at Alta Auditorium in San Antonio Community Hospital is open to agency members and other interested persons in the community.

Everett Hilliard, agency president, will conduct the meeting.

The play will be performed by members of "Plays for Living" of Southern California. It centers on the emotional upheaval in the family of a man caught in a web of bureaucratic inefficiency and delay; a man who threw himself, his family and the court system into a state of turmoil because he dared to want a trial.

Home repair program initiated in Upland

The San Bernardino County Office of Community Development, jointly with the City of Upland, is initiating a home rehabilitation loan program in the city of Upland.

The program is funded through a Federal Community Development Block Grant, and is intended to provide assistance to low and moderate income homeowners to upgrade their homes through low-interest home improvement loans.

The program enables qualified homeowners to obtain low-interest loans (at rates as low as three per cent) to bring their homes up to building code standards, or to make needed repairs or additions. Loans will be made available up to, with a term not to exceed, 12 years, according to the ability to pay.

In order to qualify for the program, the applicant must be a resident homeowner of Upland for 12 months or more, and meet specified low or moderate income criteria. The annual net income range, after allowable deductions, is from $7,350 for a one person household, to $14,800 for a household of eight or more persons.

Applications for the Rehabilitation Loan program are available at the Upland Recreation Department, 404 N. Second Ave.

West End Weddings

Hart-Hensley

A formal evening wedding ceremony was the setting for the February marriage of Denise Ann Hart and Richard Lee Hensley, both of Ontario, at the First United Methodist Church in Ontario.

A buffet reception was held at Griswolds Indian Hill Inn, Claremont, following the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Hart of Upland. She graduated in 1976 from Upland High School and was attending Chaffey College and working at Mr. Steak in Upland prior to the wedding.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Del Hensley of Upland. He graduated in 1976 from Chaffey College and is employed by Safeway Store in Upland.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Hawaii and will make their home in Upland.

Baca-Hernandez

Rita Cards Baca of Upland became the bride of Joe Hernandez of San Bernardino during a recent afternoon ceremony at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Upland.

A reception followed at Cresendo's Garden in San Bernardino.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Ramirez of Chino.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mary Hernandez of San Bernardino.

Dodd-Allen

Caree Dodd of Chino and Mark Allen of Upland were wed recently at the First Presbyterian Church, Pomona.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Dodd of Chino. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen of Upland.

The bride graduated from Chino High School in 1971, where she belonged to the band. She is a medical assistant in Pomona.

Ducks Unlimited

Several local residents have formed the Pomona Valley chapter of Ducks Unlimited, an international conservation group. President Ken Aasen of Corona will be assisted by Bud Strom of Upland, treasurer, Sue Mallard of Upland, secretary; Ron Hendrickson of Alta Loma, "Sportmen's Banquet" ticket coordinator; Frank MacDonald of Upland, arrangement coordinator; Doug Marsen of Upland, auction and prize coordinator; and Bob Nichols of Upland, publicity coordinator. Ducks Unlimited raises funds to develop and protect waterfowl breeding areas and necessary water resources. The organization has resulted in recreation of 2.25 million acres of ponds in the provinces of western Canada, where most of the North American waterfowl breed. For information call Hendrickson, 986-1189 or Nichols, 623-6511.

Registration

The Claremont Colleges are accepting advanced registration for the 1977 summer session which runs June 20-July 29. Catalogs of class listings are available by writing to the summer session office, Harper 156, Claremont Graduate School, Claremont 91711.

RTD terminal

The Southern California Rapid Transit District park-and-ride terminal has been moved to the Los Angeles County fairgrounds, a convenient location for West End residents to leave their cars for bus trips to California State University, Los Angeles, Los Angeles County-USC Medical Center, or downtown Los Angeles. Park-and-ride service resulted in a $6 per day savings in cost of the trip from Pomona to Los Angeles, according to park-and-ride figures. For information call (714) 620-1871 or (714) 824-1100.

Tests for students

Students planning to enter one of the 19 California state university and colleges next fall may get a head start on their course work by taking English, science and math test at California State College, San Bernardino in April and May. Application deadline is April 18 for the California State University English Equivalency Test to be offered April 30. Students who pass this test will receive a full year's credit in college freshman English. The two-part test has a multiple-choice component on analysis and interpretation of literature and a written essay component.

Application deadline is April 22 for exams in math, algebra-trigonometry, calculus with analytic geometry, statistics, chemistry and biology to be offered May 14. Students may take up to three of these exams on May 14 and can receive three semester units, or equivalent quarter units, for passing the examinations. This is the first year that the science-math series has been offered. The English equivalency test has been offered since 1973 with some 4,500 prospective students qualifying for freshman English credit since that time.

The English test fee is $20. Fees for the science-math series vary from a minimum of $10 for the biology test alone to a maximum of $40 for a student taking any three tests. Students planning to attend any of the 19 campuses may take these tests at Cal State, San Bernardino. Only the names of those who pass an exam or exams will be sent to the registrar's office at the campus they plan to attend. Some students, however, who do well on the essay component of the English examination but whose scores aren't high enough to pass for credit may be excused from remedial requirements or from further testing in English composition. Applications forms are available from high school counselors and SCUC admissions offices. The tests are open to high school seniors, community college students and all other Californians contemplating college.

Carnelian PTA

Carnelian School Parent-Teacher Association has elected Mrs. Farley Olander as 1977 president. Serving with her will be Mrs. Curtiss Bonneville and Don Clucas, vice presidents; Mrs. Roger Herchenroeder, secretary; Mrs. Ed Chambers, treasurer; and Mrs. George Blanchard, historian.

Scholarship

Alta Loma High School student Karin Coon has been named to receive a scholarship to study advertising design at the Art Center School of Design, Pasadena.

She is the third student to receive the scholarship for a 10-week Saturday class. Others from Alta Loma High School are Lyn Ober and Sam Arnold. All three are students of Mrs. Dale Hansen.

VICA awards

Three Upland High School students have received areawide recognition for their industrial skills.

Students who earned gold medals in Southern California Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) competition include Tracy Gillespie, commercial photography; Mike Reece, auto body; and Kevin Voskvi, gas welding.

They will compete in the VICA statewide Skill Olympics held May 6-8 in Sacramento.

Certificates of merit in the Southern California competition were also presented to Albert Arrosagaray, Rick Payne and Cindy Ramstead.

Upland VICA chapter was formed in December under the guidance of advisers Andrew Sandquist, Ken Sullivan and Bill Turner.

The club provides skill development training activities and opportunities for young men and women enrolled in industrial educational programs in public schools.

The award winners are members of the Hashi Atomi Baton Crops, directed by Sue Long of Cucamonga. For information call 987-6055.

Top students

Steven Upland High School seniors have been recognized for their outstanding academic achievement during their four years of high school. Gregg Halladay, Roger Innes, Meg Korones, Maylene Missakian, Steve Morris, Jim Sonner and Iris Woodruff have all attained the highest level of academic excellence by maintaining a 4.0 grade point average through their high school careers.

Steve Morris, having compiled the greatest number of academic courses, has earned the 1977 Upland High School valedictorian honor. He plans to pursue a career in bio-engineering at UCLA.

Twirl Champion

Sandy Long of Cucamonga has been named Senior California State Twirl Champion at a recent Drum Majorettes of America contest. She also placed second statewide in fancy strut.

Shelley Mackall of Cucamonga was named Tiny Tot California State Twirl Champion. She also placed second as most beautiful majorette, second as Wee Majorette of California, second in military strut, and fourth in fancy strut.

The Sundancers Ensemble placed second statewide both in twirl team and in dance twirl team. Sue Long directs the group which includes Teri Beets of Alta Loma, Lori Dale of Upland, and Sherrie McLaughlin, Pam Rivord, Janie Monteleone and Kristine Zingler, all of Cucamonga.

Meg Korones and Jim Sonner have the second highest number of academic courses and will share the salutatorian honor. Meg plans to major in either physics or psychology at the University of California at Santa Cruz, while Jim hopes to attend one of the Claremont Colleges, majoring in mathematics or chemistry.

Gregg Halladay expects to attend California Polytechnic, Pomona and major in engineering. Roger Innes will attend Humboldt State with a biology major.

NEEDLESS MIGRAINE SUFFERING IS WITHOUT REASON

By DR. W. P. HELZER, D.C.

In almost all cases there is a formula for getting out of trouble and staying clear.

It's true with the body's health, just as it is with the problems which plague the nation, such as migraine headaches.

For example, sensible eating habits, enough rest and good living conditions are necessary to health and happiness, but is part of the health formula being left out because of something people do not know?

There are too many who do not realize that the nerves in the spinal column mean life and death, sickness and health. It is not romantic to think about because illness never is, and yet good nerve condition is just as necessary as food, water and shelter to our lives.

The relief of headache through the use of deadening drugs is at best a temporary measure — these drugs relieve pain temporarily, but that's all they'll do. The cause of most headaches, including migraine, has been demonstrated as a nerve pressure problem in countless cases, and the proof is in instances where relief has been brought about permanently.

In these cases, the unique hollow bones of the spinal column have been found to be out of place, and the nerves within their protective centers have been pinched and the brain began to ache in protest.

Some patients have been given relief — immediately through chiropractic care as the bones were put back in place and the pressure relieved, while in others it takes longer before the pinched nerves can regain full normal function.

But the important thing to remember about Chiropractic, is to seek competent chiropractic care for the problems. Needless suffering is without reason. And I can think of no better example than the suffering brought on by migraine.

Tickets for the premiere showing are on sale for $3 at Christian bookstores throughout the San Gabriel Valley, at the Pasadena Civic ticket office, local churches, and at the Youth For Christ Office, 461 N. Grand, Covina.

Christian Science

"Reality" will be the subject of the Bible Lesson - Sermon at all Christian Science churches Sunday. The theme is, "Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation," from II Corinthians.

The Ontario church at 1429 N. Euclid Ave. will hold church and Sunday school services 10 a.m. Sunday. At the Wednesday evening testimonial meeting at 8 p.m., readings from the Bible and Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy are followed by experiences of healing through the use of Christian Science. Child care is provided at all services.

Sunday Forum

State Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65) will appear at "The Sunday Forum" of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Upland 9-10 a.m. March 27.

He is expected to make a presentation to the adult audience meeting in the parish hall on his pending legislation (AB 702) that mandates stiff prison penalties for persons employing juveniles in the production of pornography.

Unitarian Society

Dr. John Moore, Associate Professor of Social Sciences - American Studies at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona will be the guest speaker 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the Unitarian Society of Pomona Valley, 9185 Monte Vista, Montclair. His topic will be "An examination of the causes, meaning and politics of unemployment in America - or who cares about sex, violence, Larry Flynt and Idi Amin, when what we all need is a good job and lower prices."

Fellowship Church

"The Cup Which We Bless" will be the title of the Rev. Stephen White's sermon for the 10:45 a.m. service Sunday at the Fellowship Church of the Brethren, 2282 Third St., La Verne. It will be the third sermon in the Lenten series, "Here In Our Upper Room." The speaker studied at Bethany Seminary in Chicago and is now completing his second year in the La Verne College Law Center. Aaron Martin will be worship coordinator, assisted by Ted Schultz. Betty Hardy will sing "Thou True Vine." At the 7 p.m. Wednesday service Dr. Vernard Eller will lead a discussion on "Making the Commitment" as part of the Brethren evangelism emphasis. Sunday evening at 6 p.m. continuing the same theme, Rev. White will present "Programs and Strategies." Following this the film "I Beheld His Glory" will be shown.

Covina Adventist

Saturday has been designated as a Day of Fasting and Prayer, as Jesus so often did while on this earth," according to Bob Odell, pastor of the Covina Seventh-day Adventist Church, 1067 E. Badillo St.

'Heartthrob Boutique'

The Baptist Women of Bethany Baptist Church in Montclair Tuesday will attend the "Heartthrob Boutique" at the Childrens Baptist Home of Southern California in Inglewood. The ladies will take handicrafts such as knitting, crocheting, decoupage, macrame, stichery, baked goods, plants, and white elephants. Proceeds from the sale of these items will go to the home. A brunch will be served 10 a.m. - noon. Booths will be open for browsing and buying from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Other Baptist Churches of the Pacific Southwest will also participate in the yearly event.

Ground breaking

Foothill Baptist Church, 1330 W. 15th St., Upland recently broke ground for construction of their new sanctuary and office building. Construction will cost nearly $450,000.

Architectural Concerns of Santa Ana with Jim Thayer served as the architect of the 14,000 - square - foot structure. The new sanctuary will seat just under a thousand worshippers. The platform will be spacious with a provision for a choir of more than 50 voices. The new structure will be marked by a striking use of glass. While the auditorium is large it has been designed to create warmth and worship.

Members of the Building Committee are Van Helmick, Paul Willems, Bill Smead, Dick Evans, Earl Siechert and Ken Bloom. This committee worked for nearly two years before finalizing the plan. The contract was awarded to Lyle Griswold of La Habra. Griswold expects to complete the structure in September.

Christ Lutheran

Tickets for Christ Lutheran Church's April 3, Palm Sunday, Passion Play - Easter Pageant are available at no charge for individuals and small groups by calling the church, (714) 627-1433. 'Saint Judas Passion'

La Verne church to present religious play

A drama in music that explores the character of Judas Iscariot and his motives for betraying Jesus will be presented 8 p.m. Friday through Sunday in the sanctuary of the La Verne Church of the Brethren, Bonita Avenue and E Street, La Verne.

"Saint Judas Passion" was composed by Steve Engle, musical director at the La Verne Church of the Brethren, in 1972, after he was denied permission to stage "Jesus Christ, Superstar" because of copyright restrictions. It focuses on the parallels of the last days of Judas and Jesus and presents a humanistic view of Judas.

The first production was presented in 1972 at the La Verne church. A similar version was performed in 1973 at the Church of the Brethren's national convention at the Fresno Convention Center. Montclair High School produced the work in 1974. A record album of the original cast was made at RCA in Hollywood.

Engle, a native of Pennsylvania, began performing at the age of 12 with guitar and a ventriloquist act. At 14, he wrote his first song and it was recorded by a radio station. As a student at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pennsylvania, he organized and directed a musical group that performed live and made recordings.

He has been a staff member at the La Verne Church of the Brethren for seven years; first, as youth director, and more recently as director of music. His compositions and instrumentals provide creative worship experiences. Several of his hymns are well known and are used by churches across the country.

Other of his major works are "A Christmas Patchwork," a cantata for choir, soloists and instrumental ensemble; and "Tom Sawyer and Friends," a suite of songs composed for the Bicentennial tour of the Bonita High School Chamber Singers. In 1976, he received a Bicentennial Community Award for cultural development. Engle will conduct the orchestra for the production.

Extensive staging, costuming, lighting, and special effects combined with a 21-member cast, 40-voice chorus and 31-piece orchestra, make this the most ambitious production of the work by the La Verne Church to date.

C. Thurman Suttle will direct, as well as portray the leading role of Judas. Suttle, who portrayed the same role in the original production, has studied under Duncan Ross, artistic director of the Seattle Repertory Theater, and Marlene Nixon. He was the recipient of the Fine Excellence Acting Award from the Smithsonian Institute of Fine Arts. He has worked in summer stock in New Hampshire and Connecticut. He attended the Professional Training Program for Actors at the University of Washington.

Three of the performers with leading roles were in the original 1972 production: John Gingrich as Caiaphas, Michael Gnagy as Jesus, and Kevin Krause as Annas. Others in the leading roles are Erin Keene as Mary of Bethany, Bobbi Welch as Martha, Don Bowers as Pilate, Colleen Schultz as Claudia, and Mary Ann Alfano as Mary Magdalene.

The Apostles are played by Tim Clark, Laury Flora, George Jaeger, Dan Johns, Greg Lapp, Mike Lopez, Steve Mann, John Richardson, Ted Schultz, Tom Schultz and Randy Stallings.

Robert Burton, Brian Lapp, Christi Poling, Mark Waters, Kevin and Zandra Wagoner, Diane Welch, Donna Welch and Jay Wilkinson will represent street urchins.

Other personnel include Dot Hess, stage manager; John Blickenstaff, assistant to the director; Jim Henderson, codirector; Dena Carper, rehearsal accompanist; Tom Schultz, vocal coach.

Pomona College to double art gallery's display space

CLAREMONT — Construction of a new exhibit gallery and minor revisions to existing gallery space have begun at the Gladys K. Montgomery Art Center, Pomona College.

According to David W. Steadman, director of the Claremont Colleges galleries, the new 2,500-square-foot facility will become the main exhibit area in the center and will double the total exhibition space. It will feature ceiling-hung movable display panels and a humidity control system. Steadman said the addition will allow the art department to present more student and faculty exhibitions than has been possible in the past.

Located in what has been an open courtyard, the gallery's north corner will contain an information and reception area in a concrete cylinder designed to be compatible with the existing buildings. A new walk will connect Carolyn Bartel Lyon Garden to College Avenue. Provision will also be made for easy access to the new gallery for handicapped persons. The remodeling project will include converting an existing small gallery into a print and study room.

Cost of the new construction has been funded by a gift from Mrs. Gladys K. Montgomery, donor of the original center built in 1958 and of an addition completed in 1968. Mrs. Montgomery, an honorary trustee of Pomona College and recipient of an honorary doctorate in fine arts in 1970, was founder and first president of the Women's Campus Club. She has long been active in the affairs of Pomona and her many gifts have included the Thatcher Music Building library in memory of her husband, the late Victor Montgomery, a prominent Los Angeles insurance executive.

Architects for the $357,000 project are Powell, Morgridge, Richards & Coghlan, Los Angeles, who also designed the original art center and later additions. The building contractor is Noyes, Roach Co., Los Angeles.

Montgomery will remain closed until mid-September. When it reopens, a special showing of 20th century drawings and watercolors from private Los Angeles collections will be presented. The exhibit is being organized by Steadman and Frederick S. Wight, director emeritus of the University of California, Los Angeles Gallery, and will be shown in San Francisco later.

Montgomery's permanent collection has been moved to the Lang Gallery, Scripps College, for the duration of the construction period.

Berry farm features artist of egg painting

Eggs. They're scrambled, fried, boiled and deviled. Once a year they're even decorated, using pre-packaged dyes and transfers. To Karen Lynch, however, eggs are a canvas for her art.

Her ostrich, turkey and geese eggs are painted with intricate scenes, animals, mythological beings and non-objective designs.

She will be demonstrating her art at Knott's Berry Farm's upcoming Country Fair April 1-10. Knott's Country Fair will present artisans, country games and entertainment all during the event which will culminate with an old-fashioned Easter parade Sunday, April 10. Special celebrity entertainment will include Dr. Hook and Alan: "A Tribute to Elvis." There will also be rock dancing nightly to live bands and the Disco Machine.

Lynch has been egg painting for seven years, at first experimenting with different craft techniques, including batik, decoupage and resist dyeing methods before settling on her present medium pen and ink and watercolor.

Her "canvas" has given her a whole range of possibilities to explore, she says.

"The roundness of the egg is a whole different thing to work with," she says. "Instead of just a flat piece of paper, the egg has surface, texture and a circular shape. I can think in terms of a thing going in a circle, a scene with a beginning and an end." Her eggs tell stories — humorous, mythical or fanciful.

Lynch who is well known at the Renaissance Pleasure Faires held in Agoura and Novato annually, feels fairs are "a natural way to work." Formerly from the East, Lynch, as a struggling artist, had her share of one-woman shows, reviews and art critics.

"I never saw the people I sold my paintings to," she says. "I felt it was really cold back there."

Dinner theater show offered at Holiday Inn

Holiday Inn of San Bernardino, in conjunction with Black Tie 'n Levi Productions announces the opening of their one weekend only special. The Intimate Dinner Theatre will stage an original musical revue. Entitled "King Henry the VIIIth Revue", this original show was written by Lyon Roberts and Ty Oman, two of the stars in the show. It will also introduce Elizabeth Savage as Anne Bolyn, one of the more colorful wives of King Henry the VIIIth.

The musical comedy will be presented on Friday and Saturday nights, March 25th and 26th.

The ever popular "Norman, Is That you?" will complete it's run this weekend March 18th and 19th. Due to the limited seating capacity of the room, it is recommended that your reservations for either of these two shows be made now.

On April 1st, "Lovers and Other Strangers" will start it's run. Reservations may be had by calling 825-7750, or by stopping by the Holiday Inn's front desk and purchasing your tickets in advance.

Docents briefed for art tours

Docents of the Docent Council, Fine Arts Foundation of Scripps College, have been briefed for tours of the Annual Ceramics Exhibition in Lang Gallery and an Indian Exhibition in Clark Museum, Scripps, Claremont.

The conducted tours of the two exhibits are open to area schools as enrichment to their art or social studies programs.

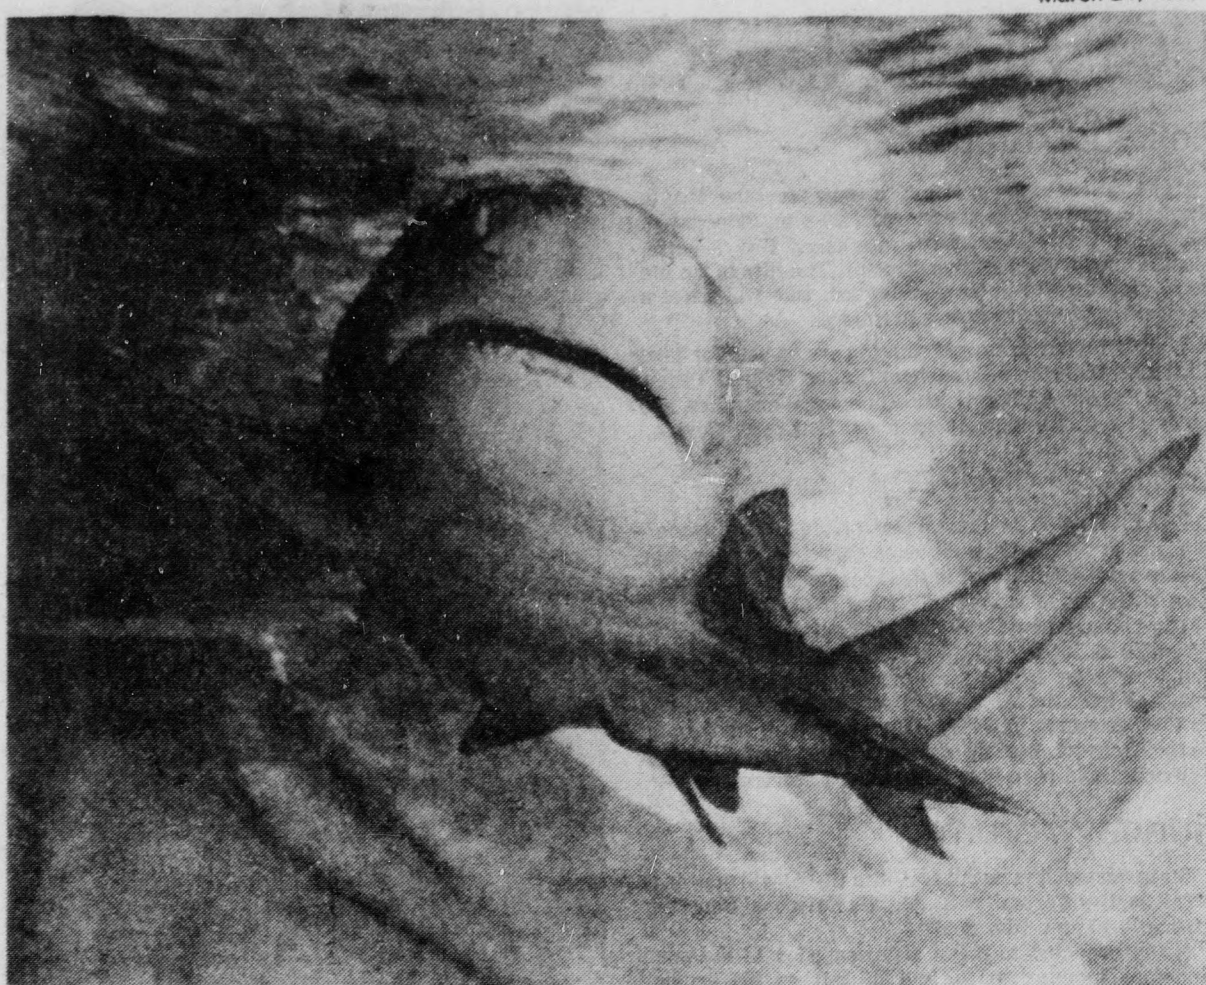

Doug Humble of Los Angeles, an artist, recently conducted the docents' briefing about the exhibition which includes the work of young ceramists. These artists have been invited from all over the country to show six works each of innovation and originality.

Kay Warren, curator of the American Indian Exhibition, conducted a learning session in Native American Artifacts in preparation for the tours.

The Docent Council was founded in 1967. Each year, the group has hosted several thousand children on the Claremont campuses providing them with guided tours of a wide variety of exhibitions at Lang Gallery and Clark Museum, Scripps, and Montgomery Galleries of Pomona College.

The volunteer docents prepare for their tours in a study program directed by Dr. David Steadman and Ann LeVeque, directors of the galleries.

LARGEST LIVE SHARKS — The nurse and lemon sharks now at Sea World are the largest on display anywhere in the country. The exhibit provides the public a close-up view of these fish, but the animals themselves are a valuable research tool for Sea World scientists who hope to learn much from extended study of the sharks in a controlled environment.

Sea World shark research

Separating myth from fact

Separating myth from scientific fact is one of the goals of Sea World Curator of Fishes, Ray Keyes, who is in charge of the San Diego park's live shark exhibit which opened in late 1976.

The display in the Atlantic Richfield World of the sea aquarium brings to public view the largest sharks on exhibit anywhere in the country.

Making their home in the 55,000-gallon tank are lemon sharks and nurse sharks, ranging from six to 10 feet in length and weighing between 150 and 350 pounds.

But the real story is, perhaps, not in what the public sees, but in what it does not — the research conducted on these fabled fishes and the potential benefits to humankind that may be reaped from extended shark research.

The goal of current research at Sea World, Keyes says, is "to make the maintenance of many species of shark outside their natural environment routine."

The intelligence of sharks — long a subject of debate — is one area Sea World scientists are interested in. "We do know," Keyes says, "that sharks are highly successful predators. They are alert, sensitive animals and by no means the stupid creatures they are often said to be."

The nurse and lemon sharks at Sea World have been conditioned to hand feeding. But what else they can learn, how much, and how quickly they can learn are questions Sea World scientists hope to be able to answer as their research continues. The "conditioning" program is being conducted with the assistance of Bruce Stephens, Sea World director of training. With the basic principles used in training other marine animals, Stephens and Keyes hope to develop conditioned responses to specific stimuli that will allow researchers to conduct their experiments with greater than normal ease.

Research now being done at Sea World with these large sharks will help Keyes and his staff of biologists gather information for what Keyes calls "a revolutionary new experimental research and display facility for large sharks," planned to open in 1978.

The planned facility is particularly exciting because it will feature seldom kept species, including the great white, hammerhead, bull, mako and tiger sharks.

The entire exhibit and research area, Keyes says, will feature an energy conservation theme, solar energy being the prime energy source.

Symphony sets spring concert

The Claremont Symphony Orchestra, conducted by George Denes, will present its spring concert on March 27 at 4 p.m. at Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College, Claremont. The program includes Overture "Colas Breugnot" by Kabalevsky, "Capriccio Italian" by Tchaikowsky, "Crystal Lake" by Elinor Remick Warren, and "Capriccio Brillant" by Mendelssohn.

"Crystal Lake" was first performed by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra with Alfred Wallenstein conducting.

FESTIVAL JAPAN — Youngster shows her traditional Keshi doll to Disneyland's chief diplomat, Mickey Mouse. Disneyland will present "Festival Japan" Saturday and Sunday featuring 500 performers in sword dances, folk songs, music recitals, drum and life corps routines and demonstrations of tea and flower arrangement ceremonies

Health Tips

VD should be treated

EDITOR'S NOTE: Health Tips is a column of the California Medical Education and Research Foundation, prepared and edited by physician members of the California Medical Association. It is reprinted by this newspaper as a public service.

Venereal disease is epidemic, but many victims are unaware of their infection. If you get a venereal disease, it is your responsibility to have it treated and to promptly notify everyone with whom you have had sexual relations recently (within the past four weeks for gonorrhea, past six months for syphilis). This means everyone — all contacts — whether they be male or female, homosexual or heterosexual contacts, nearby or in distant locations. If you care enough for a person to have been sexually intimate, surely you care enough to let him or her know they have been exposed to VD.

Your doctor helps stop the epidemic by reporting. Confidential reporting of VD cases to the Health Department makes follow-up possible and also provides a statistical count which helps to measure the extent of the VD problem in a community. Health Department VD casefinders attempt to locate and confidentially interview sexual contacts of known VD patients, particularly those with syphilis, and refer them for examination and treatment. Your name is never given out.

It is very important that people know about it if they have been exposed to a venereal disease. Most women and some men will not develop symptoms even if they get the disease but can still pass it on to others. If they know they have been exposed to someone who does have a venereal disease, they can have an examination to see if they have contracted VD. If their exposure is certain, they should have epidemiologic treatment even if there are no symptoms. Treatment should be given to everyone who has had sexual contact with a person known to have infectious venereal disease.

If a person has had sexual contact with someone who has syphilis or gonorrhea, that person should have treatment with appropriate antibiotics. This "epidemiologic" treatment prevents the possible development of symptoms and the progression of the disease; more importantly, it eliminates the infecting organisms and prevents VD spread to others.

There should be a follow-up examination one week after treatment to make sure the germs have been eliminated. And there should be no sexual intercourse during this week following treatment. For VD examination and treatment — or information — either see your personal physician or go to your local free VD clinic. Call your local Health Department for the location of the VD clinic and the hours it is open, or call your local county medical society for the name of a private physician if you don't already have one.

IRS phone line helps the deaf

The Internal Revenue Service has announced that deaf and hearing-impaired taxpayers are now able to get answers to their federal tax questions by using a new toll-free TV-phone / teletypewriter (TTY) system.

The service is available Monday through Friday throughout the United States, except in Alaska and Hawaii. Hours of operation for Southern California taxpayers are 5:30 a.m. - 3:45 p.m.

The toll-free number is 1 (800) 428-4732 for all states except Indiana.

Deaf persons may contact the IRS by using their own TV-phones or TTY units at home. Some organizations, churches and public libraries have similar machines for use by the deaf.

The TV-phone consists of a typewriter keyboard attached to a regular telephone, plus a television set. The typed message is transmitted via regular telephone lines to the recipient TV monitor screen. Any TV set may be connected to the system.

To ask a federal tax question, the taxpayer dials the toll-free number, then places the receiver in a cradle on the keyboard unit. The call is answered by an IRS taxpayer service representative, who places the IRS phone receiver in a cradle and types out a greeting which is transmitted to the taxpayer's television screen. The two then communicate via the TV screen and the typewriter.

Society offers free speakers

The Leukemia Society has just formed a speakers bureau which offers an interesting and diversified group of speakers who will talk on a wide range of topics.

"How to disinfect Uncle Sam," "Don't blame the stars," "Unisex comes to California probate," "Halfway to Eternity," are just a few of the subjects offered. The society also provides physicians who will speak on Leukemia and related diseases as well as a film and slide presentation. There is no charge for speakers.

To arrange a speaker for a group, call (213) 451-5961 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

You and Your Pet

Ear care for dogs and cats

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.
Manager of Veterinary Services

Norden Laboratories
Dogs and cats are born with an acute sense of hearing that is actually twice as good as that of human beings. But ears are a source of great trouble for these pets, and it is important to take special care while grooming to keep their ears as clean as possible.

Dog and cat ears are very sensitive; in fact, many pets resist having their ears touched at all. Normally, however, if you speak in a calm reassuring voice, your pet will accept ear cleaning as part of its normal grooming routine.

Never poke or probe at your pet's ears, and never wash the ears out with soap and water. Instead, apply a small amount of baby oil or peroxide on cotton and wipe only as far as you can without stretching the tissue. Long-haired and floppy-eared dogs will need more attention more frequently, because there is little air circulating in their ears.

If the surface of your pet's ears appears dry, you might wipe it gently with a mild ointment to lubricate slightly. If the surface seems too moist, a dusting with boric acid powder might be helpful. But you should go no further. If either condition persists, further treatment is a matter for your veterinarian.

If you suspect that your pet has any kind of ear trouble, the best thing to do is leave the ear alone and call your veterinarian.

Many overanxious owners probe too far into their pet's ears and may permanently damage the ear canal.

Some of the more obvious symptoms indicate infection: black caking around the canal just inside the ear; frequent shaking of the head and pawing at the ear; holding the head at a strange angle so that you think your pet has lost its wits; a strong odor coming from the ear; or heavy waxy material and matted hair on the surface of the ear. Do not use medications or insecticides that might be around the house.

Sometimes ear ailments are caused by nothing more than an insect bite, a minor ulceration or a small pimple. But even these minor inflammations can upset your dog or cat. Your pet can become quite annoyed and irritate the ear until both of you become frantic and the situation worsens.

Hematomas — swelling that contain blood — sometimes occur in the middle of the skin of the ear flap. They may result from a sharp blow which ruptures the blood vessels in the ear, or by your pet's scratching and shaking his ear as a result of ear inflammation or an infection.

Occasionally, dogs suffer from otitis media, an inflammation of the middle ear. This condition comes from an infection of the external ear passage or the nasal passage by way of the eustachian tube — the tube connecting the middle ear with the upper part of the throat. Common symptoms are pain, fever, ear discharge and possible loss of balance.

Often chronic ear irritations are caused by mites that settle in the ear. Symptoms of this infection are the same as for other ear infections. Prompt attention to mites can give your pet relief from misery.

Your pet can also be irritated by something as simple as too much wax in the ear. It is best, regardless of all the home remedies you may see, to have your veterinarian take a look. If there is an accumulation of wax in the ear, you may cause serious damage by attempting to dislodge it.

Remember that at the first sign of ear discomfort, you should take your pet to the veterinarian. He or she will know how to treat the various ear problems your dog or cat might have. And the veterinarian can demonstrate proper ear care for your pet so you can avoid future problems.

Living With Your Heart

CPR training to save lives

By Wallace G. Frasher, M.D., President American Heart Association, Greater Los Angeles Affiliate

Maybe you're one of our local residents who has already completed Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) training. Reports from the Los Angeles Affiliate of the American Heart Association indicate an overwhelming response to this emergency basic life support procedure. There were 1,052 persons trained during the month of January alone. I hope you were one of them.

It is the American Heart Association's goal to train 20 per cent of the population over age 14 in CPR by 1982. If you have not taken this course, I highly recommend you to do so. It may be one of the most important lessons you will learn during your lifetime.

Once you've mastered CPR, it's a good idea to keep yourself in practice to insure a satisfactory level of proficiency. A life may depend on how well you remember the proper steps of CPR and how to apply them. You should make it a point to test your skill and review your knowledge of this procedure at least once a year.

We must consider ourselves fortunate there is such an emergency procedure to help prevent death. The method practiced today is the very best we have and is a great improvement over similar techniques used in the past.

Each year more than 650,000 Americans die suddenly. There are many causes such as drowning, suffocation, choking, electrocution and smoke inhalation. But the most common cause of sudden death is heart attack. Had CPR been performed, the victim's chances of surviving would have been greatly increased.

In Los Angeles County alone, there are an estimated 33,400 deaths each year from cardiovascular disease. Heart attacks cause 21,443 or 64.2 per cent of these deaths. I am convinced that more than 5,000 of those heart attack deaths can be prevented if 20 per cent of the population is trained in CPR.

For more information on CPR, call the Heart Association office nearest you. For East San Gabriel Valley residents the phone number is (213) 698-3798.

The Voice of Business

The truth of minimum wage

By Richard Lesher
President
Chamber of Commerce
of the U.S.

If the current minimum wage bill were correctly titled "An Act to Deplete Minorities of Jobs" it would get few votes in Congress. But the Federal Trade Commission does not enforce its "truth in labeling" rules against other branches of the government, so the bill will get by with a title selected for its altruistic overtones — "Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1977" — rather than one descriptive of its destructive side effects.

The fact is, the minimum wage legislation now being contemplated (introduced by Rep. John H. Dent of Pennsylvania) would cost more than one million jobs. And the losses would hit disproportionately the young, the old, and racial and ethnic minorities — especially black teenagers.

The reason for these undesirable effects is not difficult to understand. A legislated minimum wage rate may be either below or above the prevailing free-market wage rate for unskilled labor. If below, the legislation becomes an empty political gesture, going neither good nor harm. If the legal rate is set above the market rate, however, the trouble starts.

Employers cannot pay more for work than the work contributes to their business. If they did, they would eventually exhaust their capital and go bankrupt. Therefore, increases in the minimum wage often force employers to find ways to get along with fewer unskilled workers. And they do.

Earn-while-you-learn jobs — the kind given to promising youngsters — are the most costly for an employer to provide in terms of immediate return on the wages paid out. Consequently, these jobs are of necessity low-pay — a kind of privately subsidized education for the inexperienced employee. The payoff for both employer and employee comes when the worker is able to move up to more productive, better paying work.

Eliminate these jobs and you eliminate a traditional upward route for the unskilled and the disadvantaged. Worse yet, instead of being supported and trained at private expense, the unemployed victims of this phony government "help" must be supported and trained at taxpayer expense. And public manpower training programs — while worthy in purpose — have usually not worked as well in practice as the training available in private employment.

Am I being excessively theoretical? No. The facts are there for all who are willing to look. By 1970, the cumulative effects of minimum wage legislation had lowered employment by 15 per cent among 18-19-year-olds, by 27 per cent among 16-17-year-olds, and by 45 per cent in the 14-15 bracket.

Nor does the bad news end there. Dent's bill also contains a provision that would "index" future increases in the minimum wage to the average hourly earnings of production workers. Like the similar automatic mechanism for congressional pay raises, this little trick would relieve members of Congress of the need to vote on future minimum wage increases. It would also create a disastrous inflationary spiral.

Think about it: The average of production pay goes up, so the minimum wage goes up. The increase in the minimum wage raises the production pay average, which again raises the minimum wage, which again raises the average, etc., etc.

Why do we go through this lemming-like performance, time and again? Because of the unions. Minimum wage hikes benefit the unions in two ways:

— They tend to reduce competition with higher-paying union jobs.

— They tend to push up all wage rates. When the worker on the rung below gets a raise, the one above wants one too, and so on up the ladder. Since this process is likely to worsen inflation, nobody really gains in the end. But the people who elect union officers don't understand the connection.

If President Carter is really anxious to help the unemployed, this bill — H.R. 3744 — is a good place to start. A veto of it would save more jobs than his public service jobs program is designed to create.

Goggin sponsors advertising bill

State Assemblyman Terry Goggin (D-66) has introduced legislation to allow price advertising by all professionals, and to protect consumers from deceptive advertising.

Goggin's bill is an outgrowth of recent United States Supreme Court decisions striking down professional advertising bans in other states. California still prohibits price advertising by medical and legal professionals despite growing doubts as to its constitutionality.

The state Department of Consumer Affairs has estimated that California consumers could save approximately $100 million per year if restrictions on medical price advertising alone were lifted. Studies by the Federal Trade Commission have found that those states which allow price advertising have substantially lower prices for eyeglasses, hearing aids, and prescription drugs.

"The notion that professionals should not advertise the price of their services and products is, at best, a quaint relic of 19th century America," Goggin said. "In fact, the essence of our free enterprise system is competition. Consumers cannot make intelligent choices without being able to compare prices. In addition, many consumers forego vital services because they lack cost information."

"When the Supreme Court upheld the consumer's right to price information, they also reaffirmed the state's right to ensure that advertising is not false or misleading. It is time to control deceptive advertising, rather than ban all advertising," he noted.

Legislation would help stop sexist language

Legislation to help eliminate "sexism" in the real estate profession has

SCAG elects Hansberger president

San Bernardino County Supervisor Dennis Hansberger has been elected president of the Southern California Association of Governments (SCAG).

Hansberger, who was elected at the SCAG Spring General Assembly in Pasadena, succeeds Riverside Councilwoman Rosanna Scott as head of the regional planning agency.

Also elected were Long Beach Vice Mayor James Wilson, first vice president, and Orange County Supervisor Ralph Diedrich, second vice president.

Hansberger joined the SCAG Executive Committee in 1973. He served as chairman of SCAG's Environmental Quality Committee and first vice president before being named to his present position.

Hansberger was elected to the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors in 1972 and served as its chairman in 1975 and 1976. He is currently vice chairman of the board.

Elected by member delegates of the SCAG Executive Committee, the new officers began their one-year terms immediately following the General Assembly.

SCAG is a planning and coordinating agency which deals with regional problems such as transportation, environmental quality and urban growth, that affect more than 10 million residents of the Southland.

Its membership is composed of the governments of San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Orange, Riverside, Ventura and Imperial counties and 126 cities within those counties.

G.W. Carver

George Washington Carver developed more than 100 products from the sweet potato and 300 from the peanut. He also produced paving blocks, cordage, paper, rope fiber and numerous other articles from cotton.

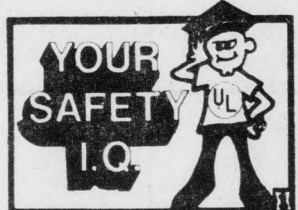

been introduced into the state legislature by Assemblyman Bill McVittie (D-65).

The measure would substitute the word "salesperson" for the term "salesman" presently used in state codes governing the licensing of real estate agents.

"This bill is another step in our legislative efforts to eliminate sexist terminology from our laws. We now generally refer to police officers rather than policemen, and firefighters rather than firemen, to reflect the ever-increasing role women play in these fields," McVittie said.

McVittie noted that the legislature made a special effort last session to remove many of the sexist designations and discriminatory passages present in state laws.

The bill will now be assigned to an Assembly Policy Committee, where it will be scheduled for hearing sometime next month. The measure (AB 960) is supported by the Department of Real Estate.

1. A brown-bag lunch can be hazardous to your health?
☐ True ☐ False
2. The 55 mile an hour U.S. highway speed limit has had little effect on highway accident death rates?
☐ True ☐ False

ANSWERS

Provided as a public service by Underwriters Laboratories

1. TRUE. The U.S. Department of Agriculture warns that lunches always refrigerate such brown-bag lunches for several hours. Key salad, can produce food poisoning if left standing at room temperature. Also, meats or poultry, when reheated, can produce food poisoning.

2. FALSE. The U.S. Department of Transportation estimates that each year since the enactment of the 55 mph speed limit, the result of lower, more uniform speeds, the number of lives saved is the equivalent of 9,000 lives saved each year since the enactment of the 55 mph speed limit.

Pop music review

Boston puts it together

By Michael Del Rey
Pop Music Critic

Boston, one of America's fastest-rising supergroups, was recently in the Los Angeles area for a list of three performances: Long Beach Arena March 16, the Swing Auditorium March 18 and then back to the Arena on the 19th.

The sold-out and tightly-packed Long Beach Arena concert on the 19th welcomed Boston with the high-pitched screaming that was reminiscent of the anticipation for the Beach Boys at the Forum, New Year's Eve.

With the space ship off their album cover, "Boston," the group opened with "Rock and Roll Band," followed by a new tune not yet recorded — "Shadowed Images."

The group also unleashed new songs, "Man Will Never Be," "Television Politician" and "Don't Be Afraid."

While a lot of groups are getting into special effects on stage (and, at times, special effects can be entertaining), Boston's performance at Long Beach relied strictly on their definite melodic and harmonic flow throughout their performance.

"More Than A Feeling,"

the group's monstrous hit of 1976, and their current Top 20 smash, "Long Time," held the show intact.

Bringing on a personal touch was Brad Delp, who handles lead vocals, walked to the edge of the stage, and, with no instruments in hand, reached out to the audience.

The audience reached back.

The Boston line-up also includes Tom Scholz, lead-rhythm - acoustic - and special effects guitar, bass, organ, clarinet and percussion; Barry Goudreau, lead and rhythm guitars; Fran Shehan on bass; and Sib Hashina, drums.

There have been some very interesting stories surrounding rock groups such as how they write their music and how they formed. Though Boston's story has been told and retold, their career beginnings merits retelling.

According to Boston's drummer Hashina, the new tunes played at the Long Beach concert weren't really "new."

"The new songs were written back around the same time we wrote our first album," he explained, "and that material is five years old."

On Sept. 12, 1975, Tom Scholz, a 29-year-old MIT graduate, brought a tape to fellow worker Joe Montesano who, like a lot of other people who worked with Scholz, was fascinated by Scholz' desire to make home recordings of himself singing.

The seven-inch reel was taken home by Montesano who promptly forgot about it.

After a few weeks, however, Montesano mailed the tape to his cousin, Paul Brouseau, manager of a record warehouse in Woburn, Massachusetts.

Passing Brouseau's slightly opened office door was then - promotion man for ABC, Charlie McKenzie.

"I was walking down the corridor," McKenzie later recalled, "and I heard this amazing music coming out the door. I asked Paul who it was, trying to be nonchalant. But my eyeballs were going through the roof. He told me Tom's name and where he worked and I called him for lunch."

It was McKenzie's quick ability to recognize superb talent that eventually led to Boston's success.

According to singer Delp, Boston's musicians came together because "Fran knew Barry, and I knew Fran, and Fran had played with Sib, and Sib had played with Tom, and Barry knew Tom, and Tom knew me, but Fran didn't know that I knew that he knew Barry too, so what happened was..."

While backstage at Long Beach I asked Hashian and Delp who Boston enjoys listening to. "I think a consensus would be the Eagles," explained Hashian, jokingly, "because the Eagles sing about 'The New Kid in Town' and I believe we're that new kid in town."

With their debut album still selling and surpassing the 3.12 million copies already sold, if Boston is the new kid in town — they deserve it.

"The Outlaws," who record for Arista Records were lacking in original style due to their sounding much like "ZZ Top." Epic Recording Artist's "Starcaster" opened the show.

Mike Del Rey, a Diamond Bar resident, is the new rock music critic for Bonita Publications' six weekly newspapers. He has extensive knowledge of the pop music field, and will be writing reviews of performances and new albums and interviews with the top rock groups in the world. Accompanying Del Rey will be photographer Bo Shannon who also has photographed some of the hottest groups, including Dave Mason, The Electric Light Orchestra, Angel, Foghat, Ambrosia, The Band, Elton John, The Rolling Stones and recently the photos which appear in this debut review of Boston.

EASTER ENTERTAINMENT — Dr. Hook will highlight Knott's Berry Farm's country fair-style Easter festivities. The group, well known for "Sylvia's Mother" and "Cover of the Rolling Stone," will appear April 2-3 and 7-9. The group is also known for their stage antics. Formerly called Dr. Hook and the Medicine Show, they can mimic and parody blues, boogie, psychedelic, country or glitter rock styles.

Les McCann to perform Monday

The Claremont Colleges Concert Board will present Les McCann in concert Monday evening, March 28, at 7 and 9:30 p.m. The performances will be held in Garrison Theater, at the corner of 10th Street and Dartmouth Avenue on the campus of the Claremont Colleges in Claremont.

In recent years, Les McCann has emerged as a leading jazz musician and has proved instrumental in the popularization of that idiom. He has been recognized as "the most controversial pianist since Dave Brubeck," adding that "he will most probably launch a whole squadron of imitators." Over his career, McCann has recorded some forty albums, some of the most recent of which are Layers, Another Beginning, Hustle to Survive, and River High, River Low. Reserved tickets for both performances are $5.50 and $6, and are available through the Garrison Theater box office (714) 626-8511, ext. 2243.

Cal Poly sends engineers to sea

A program in ocean engineering is being offered for the first time this quarter by Cal Poly, Pomona's School of Engineering.

This multidisciplinary minor may be taken by any student majoring in an engineering discipline — aerospace, electrical and electronics, mechanical, chemical, civil or industrial.

According to John C. McMillan, Cal Poly professor of electrical engineering, one of the principle architects of the new ocean engineering minor, the program is one of only two of its kind in the 19-campus California State University and Colleges system, and one of the few on the undergraduate level in the entire country.

"This is not a biologically oriented program — although some marine biology courses are recommended," said James A. McAllister, associate professor of electrical engineering, who helped write the proposal for the program. "It deals with the practice of engineering in and on the ocean."

The Cal Poly program will emphasize instrumentation and vehicle aspects of ocean engineering.

The minor will be administered by a committee chaired by McMillan and including one member from each of the disciplines in the School of Engineering. Some of the courses will use the CSUC Ocean Studies Consortium vessel, berthed in Long Beach.

Also, as part of the program, the School of Engineering has entered into an arrangement with the California Maritime Academy whereby Cal Poly students minoring in ocean engineering can take part in the academy's 10-week training cruise aboard the 8,000-ton converted C-3 transport vessel, the T.S. Golden Bear.

A student chapter of the Marine Technology Society, one of the principal technological societies for ocean engineering, has been established on campus.

Final preparations are now being made for the 6th Annual "Miss California National Teen-Ager" Pageant to be held at the University of California at Berkeley, July 1, 2 and 3.

The University of California at Berkeley will be the host college for the event.

The Miss California National Teen-Ager Pageant is the official state finals to the Miss National Teen-Ager Pageant to be held in Atlanta, Ga., in August of 1977.

Teen-agers desiring further information may write to Sybil Shaffer, 215 Piedmont Ave., N.E., Atlanta, Ga., 30308, or call (404) 659-4610. The pageant is open to girls 13 through 17 years of age as of Jan. 1, 1977. (Born on or after Jan. 1, 1959).

ARE YOU OPERATING UNDER A FICTITIOUS BUSINESS NAME?

If you are, are you aware that the California Business and Professions Code requires you to do the following:

1. File a fictitious business name statement with the county clerk in the county where you have your principal place of business.
2. Have the statement published once a week for four weeks in a newspaper circulating in the area where you are doing business.
3. File a new statement on or before December 31 of the fifth year after the year in which the original statement was filed.

The purpose of this statute is to allow the public to know the true identities of those with whom it has business dealings. Filing is also in your best interest since in the event of non-compliance you will be prevented from maintaining any action on an account or contract or with regard to any transaction that you have had while operating under your fictitious name.

You should consult with your attorney for further details regarding compliance.

Lay a good foundation first

How to plant a lawn

Suggest planting a lawn and most people immediately remark on the difficulties, but the California Association of Nurserymen advises gardeners that if basic lawn-planting steps are followed carefully, success will be assured without a hitch.

To begin, lay a good foundation for your lawn by cleaning up and grading the lawn area.

Lawns grow best in sandy loam and loam soils for loams are fertile, hold moisture well and drain well in addition to pulverizing easily.

Clay and silt loams do not make good lawn soils and should be replaced or thoroughly amended at the direction of your nurseryman.

If the top soil is good, you may start right away with rototilling. Grade away from the house.

After cleaning the lawn area and rototilling to a depth of 6-8 inches, rake and roll entire area with a roller which you may obtain from most nurseries on a rental or loan basis.

Work commercial fertilizer and organic matter into the surface of the soil — the fertilizer serves as food for the young grass and the organic matter helps to retain moisture and keeps the surface soil from drying and baking.

Roll and rake again to assure a smooth, level surface where water won't collect in puddles.

If you plan on installing an irrigation system, set it in now.

Next comes the planting of the lawn seed or the installation of sod grass. Seeding a new lawn is less expensive than sodding, but requires some attention at first to keep the lawn area moist at all times while the seed is germinating.

Sod lawns require the same soil preparation steps but do provide the homeowner with an instant green carpet.

Either way, be sure to select a lawn variety that is right for your climate and use requirements. Some prefer cool climates such as Kentucky blue grass. Others are resilient to foot traffic such as Fescues.

The amount of sun or shade is also a critical factor.

To broadcast the seed evenly use a spreader which is available for your use at most nurseries. Water with a fine spray and continue to water once or twice a day until the lawn is well established. If you follow these steps, your lawn will be a green, growing success.

Bulbs will soon burst, colorful flowers follow

Fall and winter planted bulbs will soon be bursting into bloom followed by colorful spring bloomed corms and tubers taking over the show in summer. That means it's time to check the nursery bins for Gladiolus, Cannas, Tuberous Begonias and Dahlias ... just to name a few.

Gladiolus are easy - to - grow especially if you select bulbs (actually called corms) at least 1½" or more in diameter and 1" thick. Both of these measurements are important since the diameter measurement indicates the size and number of flower spikes you can expect, and the thickness indicates how young and vigorous the corm is. Plant the corms in two week successions to provide plenty of color throughout the summer for garden cutting.

Dahlias provide the south - of - the - border colors for the garden in several flower forms and sizes. Choose from the dwarf forms to the large exhibition types which grow flowers 10-12 inches across on tall, thick stems. The popular flower types are the cactus, pompon, and decorative. Nurseries display illustrations of these types for you to choose from. If you choose the taller varieties that require staking, place the stake at planting time to avoid disturbing the tuber later.

Cannas are perhaps the showiest of all the summer - blooming tubers. They thrive in the heat and perform well in sunny areas of milder climates. The large lush leaves lend a tropical look, and the bright red and yellow flowers put on a fine display of color.

As danger of frost passes Tuberous Begonias will be available for planting as started plants. Right now, the tubers are appearing in nurseries for sprouting indoors. Use a mix containing plenty of peat, leaf mold and sand to sprout the tubers in a flat. When tops are two to three inches high, move the plants into permanent pots or into the ground.

HYBRID TEA ROSE — Double Delight, the hybrid tea rose, was originated by Herbert C. Swim of Ontario. It is a cross between a Granada and Garden Party. This is perhaps the most outstanding hybrid tea rose ever produced.

Used water for plants

Dishwater, laundry or bathwater can be used to irrigate outdoor plantings if reasonable care is used. Phosphates in detergents are not a soil problem.

Two kinds of wash water chemicals are most likely to cause damage to plants — chlorine and boron. When bleach is used in the wash water, it is toxic to plants.

Also, sodium can eventually cause soil to resist water penetration. This condition can be corrected by mixing gypsum into the affected soil surface.

Home water softeners may increase the sodium content of waste water. Salts can damage plants if they accumulate in the soil.

Some rules to follow when irrigating with waste water are, mix the wash-cycle laundry water with the rinse-cycle; if bleach or detergent in large amounts is used, discard the wash-cycle water and use only the rinse water; and watch the plants closely. Chlorine and boron cause burning of the leaf edges.

Pour recycled water away from trunks of shrubs or trees. The feeder roots are farther out and take up the water.

Put enough water on the plants for them to get a good drink.

Planting beds for color

Annuals are plants which germinate, grow, bloom, and complete their life cycle in one year. We use them to provide breathtaking color in flower beds, window boxes, hanging baskets and patio containers. These annuals, often referred to as bedding plants, can be purchased as started plants in plastic packs or pots ready to transplant into the garden. Many are sold with flowers already in bloom.

Growing annuals such as Petunias, Marigolds, Alyssum, Lobelia, and Snapdragons is not only rewarding but easy. To prepare the soil, spade it up and mix in a garden fertilizer. If the soil is clay or sand, add organic matter such as compost or peat. Proper soil conditioning of the top 6-8 inches will insure good root growth with greater tolerance to drying heat and wind. Water the plants in thoroughly and top dress the soil with a mulch to cut down on water loss due to evaporation. Be sure to spread a snail and slug bait around the plants.

The following list of annuals is or will soon be available for spring planting:

Full sun — Alyssum, Ageratum, Candytuft, Aster, Dianthus, Petunias, Verbena.

Blooming shrubs due soon

Spring blooming shrubs will soon be in flower providing color for slowly awakening gardens as the days continue to warm-up. These springtime favorites make excellent backgrounds for annuals, perennials and the spring flowering bulbs ... including Daffodils, Tulips and Dutch Iris. All of them create cool green backdrops and screens during the summer and some will provide flame-tinted fall foliage. So rest assured that spring flowering shrubs pull their weight in the landscape well beyond their spring performance.

Flowering Quince have long been a favorite of California gardens — new selections make Quince just as viable in today's garden. As a result of careful breeding you can now select from a color range of white, all shades of pink, combinations of pink and white, and many shades of red. Flowering Quince bear large clusters of flowers — blooming two and sometimes three times in the spring.

Forsythia provides the "golden bells" of spring. Once suited to eastern gardens and northern California, this shrub has been bred to perform without match. The weeping Forsythia will grow eight to ten feet tall.

Tea rose creates high praise

Probably one of the most outstanding hybrid teas ever produced. It has magnificent white and red coloring — sort of as though someone with an airbrush had fired random, but artistic shots of ruby red at a creamy white rose. The blooms are very large, averaging 5½" to 6" in most gardens, with 36 to 45 broad, thick petals making up the shapely flower.

The flowers are held erect on long, strong stems, and are produced continuously throughout the season. The formal, high-centered blooms have a strong, pleasing fragrance, which resembles a blend of spice and anise. As the blooms age on the bush, more and more red appears until, at the petal dropping stage, the flowers are practically all crimson. The creamy-white, long-pointed bud appears to have been dipped in a ruby-red paint.

The bush habit of double delight is upright-spreading, being quite bushy and of average or a little taller height. The foliage is abundant, of a deep, glossy green, and holds well to the ground.

In pre-market tests in gardens around the world, this rose has aroused a great deal of attention and praise, and should be here to stay for many years.

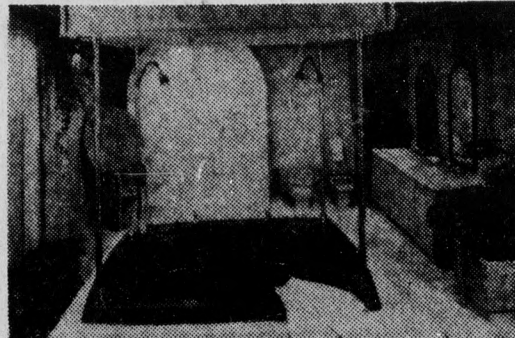

Great camellias

The blooming season for Camellias begins in the fall and continues into early spring — months that can be colorless without these shrubs. Now is a good time to browse through nurseries to select the flower color and form that you desire, and plant Camellias in the garden.

Camellias can be grown in a number of ways, depending on the variety you are working with. All can be grown in containers; their rich, glossy foliage offering a pleasing contrast against tubs of redwood or ceramic material. Container growing of Camellias opens up the culture of Camellias to areas apartment dwellers as well as homeowners with less than desirable soil types and drainage.

Camellias are grown throughout the state and are surprisingly easy - to - grow. They prefer any semi - shaded location protected from hot sun, or where they receive direct sunlight for only a few hours in the early morning or late afternoon.

Aqueduct provides 343-mile-long fishing hole

They call it "the longest fishing hole in California."

It is a 343-mile stretch of the California Aqueduct, a man-made river in a concrete channel, that starts at the Sacramento - San Joaquin Delta, flows southward along the west side of the San Joaquin Valley, takes a prodigious 2,000-foot leap over the Tehachapi Mountains into southern California, curves east through Antelope Valley and Victor Valley, and finally ends at the San Bernardino Mountain foothills, where the channel becomes a pipeline to Silverwood Lake.

Striped bass, catfish, bluegills and other species are found in varying abundance throughout this watercourse and anglers are welcome to fish free along nearly the entire length of the open canals or at 15 specially designed angling access sites with parking and restrooms.

The aqueduct is open to fishing every day of the year, and people are permitted on the premises during the hours between sunrise and sunset.

Sportfishermen are familiar with the good fishing to be found in the 13 reservoirs of the State Water Project but relatively few are aware of the angling opportunities offered by the aqueduct itself, says the Department of Fish and Game.

"It's a unique and enjoyable type of fishing experience. It's peaceful and quiet, it's a novelty, and it's always available. This is a drought year but the aqueduct won't run dry," said Ken Aasen, DFG biologist whose assignment includes the State Water Project fishing facilities in southern California.

Aqueduct fishing is a challenge. It calls for a type of know-how that is new to most anglers, Aasen said.

"Fishermen who have mastered the technique of canal fishing come home with good catches," he said. "On the other hand, anglers who fish the aqueduct as though it were just another stream don't do as well unless they get lucky."

Aasen advises that anglers fish at the downstream end of a siphon or where the aqueduct bends. The change in direction and speed of flow, and the eddies created in those areas, seem to attract fish. Casting under or around a bridge also usually brings good results, he said.

Best baits for striped bass are anchovies or sardines. Artificial lures may also be effective. If you're after catfish, use cut bait, shrimp or freshwater clams, he advises.

Be sure to have your fishing license on you, person, because DFG wardens do check aqueduct fishermen, Aasen warned. State fishing regulations apply all along the aqueduct.

It's also a good idea to bring along a long-handled dip net to avoid the risk of not being able to land your fish, he said.

North, South division

Aasen says that the California Aqueduct is divided naturally into a northern and southern section separated by the Tehachapi mountain range.

The northern section has populations of fish from the Delta that have travelled successfully through a series of pumps and generators and established themselves in the open canals.

Striped bass and channel catfish weighing ten pounds or more are caught in this stretch of the aqueduct, along with white catfish and several species of panfish — bluegills, green sunfish and redear sunfish — that often reach weights of one pound. Threadfin shad provide excellent forage.

Some catches of starry flounder a saltwater fish, have been reported in the area around San Luis Reservoir and O'Neill Forebay in Merced County.

South of the Tehachapis the three major sportfish are striped bass, channel cat fish and bluegills, with other panfish in lesser number.

Here, too, anglers have been catching channel catfish in the ten pound range. Catfish grow well in this section for the aqueduct thanks to the presence of large numbers of freshwater clams that have become established throughout the aqueduct and provide good forage for the catfish.

The state Wildlife Conservation Board, which furnishes capital funds for the conservation and recreational use of fish and wildlife resources, has constructed a series of 15 angler access sites along the aqueduct.

These projects usually include a fishing platform; parking area; stairs, rails and fencing; sanitary facilities; and trash receptacles.

To date the WCB has spent over $200,000 in establishing the facilities. Thirteen of them are in the San Joaquin Valley. Two are in the Antelope Valley of Los Angeles county: the 77th Street East Fishing Site and the Longview Road Fishing Site, both just east of Palmdale. Three additional access sites in the Antelope Valley are being planned.

Free guide available

Anglers may get a map showing the exact location of all fishing access sites along the aqueduct by requesting a free brochure, "Fishing Along the State Water Project," from the state Department of Water Resources, 1416 Ninth Street, Sacramento, California 95814.

Also available from the DWR is a free brochure, "California Aqueduct Bikeway," which includes a map showing the location of paved roadways that parallel the aqueduct and provide access to bicycle riders, hikers and fishermen. Anglers may enter the bikeway from a series of parking areas or from any road which crosses the aqueduct.

The bikeway, open every day during daylight hours, features rest stops at 10-mile intervals with drinking water, sanitary facilities, picnic tables and shade ramadas. The water can be still one minute and flowing rapidly the next. Suction spots can occur, especially around Motor vehicles are not permitted on the bikeway but there are ample parking areas from which anglers can walk to the canal and fish.

Fishing in the aqueduct can be great sport, but it can also be dangerous, the DFG warns. The concrete sides of the canals are watergates. Without help, it is almost impossible to climb out of the aqueduct except by using safety ladders spaced 500 feet apart on alternate sides of the canal.

For safety's sake, anglers should stay close to the road or on fishing platforms; never enter the water for any reason; fish with a buddy if possible; never climb on or over fences; and keep a watchful eye on children and pets.

Check fire hazards

Relatives and friends of older people, as well as senior citizens, should be aware of fire hazards and take steps to make houses or apartments less dangerous, says Trudy Daly, a fire safety education expert with an insurance group.

Of primary concern is slowed reaction as a result of age or illness, she said. "If clothing catches fire, for example, they may be unable to 'drop and roll,' the standard technique for extinguishing apparel fire."

"Or they may not be able to get out of the house quickly in the event of fire. Precautions should be taken to see that escape routes are clearly understood and not blocked by any furniture or other objects," she said.

In many communities special fire safety programs are marked by local fire departments with a fire-prevention week.

"Offer your services to an older relative or neighbor during this week," she suggests. "Help them to get rid of newspapers, magazines and other flammable trash that may have accumulated indoors during the winter. And check around for other obvious fire hazards." Statistics show that most house fires occur at night, Daly said. "It is important to be prepared. Is there a telephone near the bed? Is the local fire department's telephone number nearby — printed in large numerals so it is easy to read?"

Smoke detectors should be placed in key areas of the house or apartment, she said. "Older people should consider installing more smoke detectors than a young family would."

"It's worth the investment — and it is a better gift for elderly parents than something like the usual long, frilly birthday bathrobe for mom that can easily catch fire over a lighted burner," she said.

If the elderly are smokers, there should be plenty of large, deep ashtrays around the house. Older people should be cautioned against smoking while taking medication that may cause them to drowse.

Local fire departments usually cooperate when asked to make a fire safety inspection of a house, said Daly.

Despite great strides, female jockeys rare

Despite the great strides being made by women in a number of formerly "male-only" occupations, female jockeys are still rare, reports Seventeen Magazine.

However, hundreds of women who dream of racing horses are now working at racetracks as stablehands and exercise girls for little or no pay.

Robyn Smith is one of the few female jockeys riding in major races. When she first appeared on the racetrack several years ago, her mounts were usually long shots and losers; the owners, it seemed, didn't want to trust a female jockey with their best horses. But Robyn began turning long shots into winners. "I felt very good about that," she says, "but really I don't believe that there's much difference among good jockeys. If a horse is going to have a bad day, he will."

Other would-be female jockeys have not been as lucky. Working behind the scenes at racetracks, they're up before sunrise to groom and walk the horses, hoping that some trainer will notice their dedication and help them along. "It's all breaks and hard work," says one nineteen-year-old girl who's been walking horses for a year. "You need a lot of guts to stick around and ignore the trainers who are always telling you to go away and get married."

ACLV leader to deliver talk in Claremont

Ramona Ripston, newly elected executive director of the Southern California American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), will be the featured speaker at a public gathering 8 p.m. March 30 at the McAlister Center in Claremont. Ripston's topic will be "The ACLU Today."

Ripston is the first woman to direct the activities of a major ACLU affiliate and has held several other posts, including board member of the National Lawyer's Guild.

The public is invited to the free gathering at McAlister Center in the Claremont Colleges, at the corner of 10th Street and Columbia Avenue, across the street from Garrison Theater.

Tax forms available

Blank forms for state and federal income tax reports are now available at the Pomona Public Library.

Standard report forms will be available along with the more commonly used schedules and attachments, according to Bradley A. Simon, city librarian.

Pomona Public Library is open Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The library is closed Sundays.

Elegant, rich desserts for Passover holiday

If a little is good, a lot is better. This especially is true of desserts and baked goods for Passover. The Passover holiday which begins sundown April 2 calls for a very special feast to commemorate the Hebrew exodus from Egypt. At this time Jews throughout the world observe strict dietary laws during this very traditional celebration.

Sweets always have been a perfect closer for the holiday meal. Eggs have been a mainstay in Jewish cooking for Passover since they provide lightness and volume that is obtained at other times with yeast or other leavening. Hard-cooked eggs are served with salt or salt water during the Seders and go into matzo balls and sponge cakes that are so much a part of the occasion. Perfect desserts for Passover can be very elegant and rich, despite restrictions, for example, an orange grapefruit torte using layers of baked meringue, a cream pie or a strawberry ambrosia shortcake. Shalom and next year in Jerusalem!

Orange Grapefruit Torte

1 1/2 cups sugar, divided
1 cup finely ground almonds
2/3 cup potato starch
1/8 teaspoon grated grapefruit rind
9 egg whites

In a large bowl mix one-half cup sugar, almonds, potato starch and grapefruit rind. In a large bowl beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in remaining 1 cup sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form. Fold egg whites into almond mixture. On brown paper, draw five seven-inch circles. Place brown paper on baking sheet. Turn meringue into pastry bag with large star tip. Pipe six small kisses on brown paper and pipe circles inside outlines on paper. Fill in circles with remaining meringue. If pastry bag is not available drop kisses from teaspoon and spread meringue inside circles. Bake in 300-degree oven 1 hour, until dry and lightly browned. Turn off oven and allow meringue to cool in oven.

Filling:

3 tablespoons potato starch
3/4 cup orange juice
3/4 cup grapefruit juice
3/4 cup sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
9 egg yolks

In the top of a double boiler stir potato starch with a little juice until dissolved. Add remaining orange and grapefruit juice, sugar and salt. Beat in egg yolks. Place over boiling water and cook, stirring frequently, until mixture thickens and mounds when dropped from a spoon 13 to 16 minutes. Mixture will be lumpy. Chill for 1 to 2 hours. To assemble torte, spread top of each meringue layer with orange-grapefruit filling. Stack layers and place kisses on top. Garnish with orange and grapefruit sections. Makes 8 servings.

Passover Fruit Puffs

1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup water
1/3 cup butter or margarine
1 cup matzo meal
1/4 teaspoon salt
4 eggs

In medium saucepan combine orange juice, water and butter. Bring to a boil. Add matzo meal, stirring constantly until well blended. Remove from heat. Beat in eggs one at a time. Drop by heaping tablespoons onto a greased baking sheet. Bake in 450-degree oven 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 325-degrees and bake 20 to 25 minutes longer, or until puffs are browned and dry. Cool on wire rack. Cut cap from top and scoop out inside. Fill with Orange Fruit Filling, replace top. Makes 16 puffs.

Orange Fruit Filling

1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons potato starch
1 cup orange juice
1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, thawed

In medium saucepan mix sugar and potato starch. Stir in orange juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in raspberries and simmer 1 minute, continuing to stir. Chill.

Passover Strawberry Ambrosia Shortcake

Cake batter:

8 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups sugar
2/3 cups orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
3/4 cup Passover cake meal
1/2 cup potato starch
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/3 cup finely chopped nuts

1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Strawberry Ambrosia Topping
Strawberry Ambrosia:

1 carton strawberries, washed, hulled and sliced
2 cups Florida orange sections
2 medium bananas, sliced
1/3 cup flaked coconut
1/4 cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 tablespoon sugar

For shortcake, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually add sugar, beating after each addition until mixture is light but very thick. Add orange juice and beat well (about 3 minutes on electric mixer). Stir in orange rind. Sift together cake meal, potato starch, salt and cinnamon. Add nuts and mix lightly. Fold dry ingredients gently into beaten egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Gently fold into cake batter, blending well. Spoon into 9 or 10-inch ungreased tube pan. Bake in 350-degree oven for 1 hour or until done.

While cake is baking, make ambrosia. Place strawberries, oranges, bananas and coconut in bowl. Sprinkle with sugar. Let stand at room temperature. Whip cream with vanilla and one tablespoon sugar until soft peaks form; chill.

When cake is done, invert pan and cool cake before removing. Cut into 2 layers with serrated knife. Place bottom layer on plate. Spread with one-third of whipped cream and top with two-thirds of ambrosia. Pour juices (from sugared fruit) over the ambrosia and top with another one-third of whipped cream. Center second cake layer over filling, spread with remaining whipped cream and top with remaining ambrosia. Makes 8 servings.

To section oranges, cut slice from top, then cut off peel in strips from top to bottom, cutting deep enough to remove white membrane. Or cut off peel round and round spiral fashion. Go over fruit again to remove any remaining white membrane. Cut along side of each dividing membrane from outside to middle of core. Remove section by section.

KISSIN' COUSIN — Warm pineapple cake is a "kissin' cousin" to the more familiar Pineapple Upside Down Cake. Made from a rich yeast dough, it's baked over a luscious pancoat of brown sugar, butter, coconut and golden rings of canned Hawaiian pineapple. All right, it does take a little more time than what you are used to making for a family treat, but it definitely is worth it. Just one taste will convince you it was worth the little extra effort. Try it soon. This cake would make a wonderful Easter dessert or brunch surprise for the weekend guests.

Warm pineapple cake a success

"Raised Pineapple Coffee Cake" is so much like the world-famous pineapple upside down cake that it's called a "kissin' cousin." Coffee bread, snack, dessert, it's also an inspired success.

Raised Pineapple Coffee Cake

2 (8 1/4 ounce) cans sliced pineapple
1/3 cup syrup from pineapple
1 package active dry yeast
2 tablespoons brown sugar (packed)
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
2 eggs
2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1/3 cup butter or margarine, softened
Pan Coat
8 maraschino cherries

Drain pineapple, saving syrup. Measure 1/3 cup syrup into a small saucepan, and heat to lukewarm (110 to 115 degrees F). Pour into small mixer bowl, add yeast and stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt and almond extract. Beat in eggs and half the flour until smooth. Add butter and remaining flour, and mix until flour is moistened, and then beat at low speed 3 minutes. (If mixer is not used, beat well by hand.) Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1 1/2 hours. When dough is almost risen, prepare Pan Coat. Arrange well drained pineapple slices in the Pan Coat, overlapping slightly, and place a cherry in center of each. Stir dough down, and spoon over the pineapple in an even layer. Let rise again until doubled, 45 to 60 minutes. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes, until cake is nicely browned, and tests done. Remove from oven and let stand 5 minutes in pan. Loosen edges with a spatula, and invert over serving plate. Allow pan to rest over cake a few minutes, so syrup will drain. Serve warm. Makes 1 cake (about 8 servings).

Pan Coat: Melt 1/3 cup butter or margarine and turn into a 6 x 10 x 1 3/4-inch baking dish. Stir in 1/2 cup brown sugar (packed), 1/4 teaspoon mace, 1 tablespoon syrup from pineapple, and 1/3 cup flaked coconut.

One-dish meal that is delicious and nutritious

Inventive cooks search for years for recipes that yield one-dish meals that are delicious, nutritious, even economical.

Fish and Vegetable Dinner is just such a recipe. What's more, this dinner is easily prepared and takes very little time.

Fish fillets, the recipe's main ingredient, can be any species of fish. If there's a special at the supermarket, if a species is native to a particular area and therefore less expensive, the total cost of the dish goes down. Frozen peas and carrots and cooked potatoes join the fish fillets to make the dish a meal complete. It is delicious, offers the good nutrition of fish and vegetables, and looks pretty when set on the family table.

If another vegetable is desired, buttered, cooked cabbage wedge would be an appetizing choice. If not, a salad would make the meal well-rounded. A molded Carrot-Pineapple-Lemon Gelatin Salad would be delectably tart. Hot buttered bread is another go-along and for dessert after the hearty dinner, ice cream and cookies will be refreshing and cool.

The recipe for Fish and Vegetable Dinner, developed by the National Marine Fisheries Service, is included in an appealing little recipe booklet called, "A Little Fish Goes a Long Way." In these days of uncertain economy, inexpensive recipes are almost priceless and many of these recipes are just that. The booklet, No. 003-020-00074-6, sells for 65 cents each and can be obtained by sending a check or money order (send no stamps, please) to: Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Include your name, address, and zip code.

Fish fillets, low in calories and saturated fats, are always good eating. When everything's in one dish and it's delicious, nutritious, and economical, wise cooks know they've reached a goal. Fish and Vegetable Dinner is such a meal!

Fish and Vegetable Dinner
1 pound fish fillets, fresh or frozen

1 cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons margarine, or cooking oil
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 can (13 ounce) evaporated milk
2 cups sliced cooked potatoes
1 package (10 ounce) frozen peas and carrots, thawed
Paprika

Thaw frozen fish; cut into 1-inch pieces. Cook onion in margarine or oil in saucepan until tender, but not brown. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk; cook, stirring constantly until thick. Add vegetables; heat until bubbly. Fold in fish. Pour into shallow 1 1/2-quart casserole. Cover with aluminum foil, crimping it to edges of casserole. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., about 30 minutes. Uncover and continue cooking 5 to 10 minutes or until bubbly and fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Sprinkle with paprika. Makes 4 servings.

Flour use explained

Flour power strikes again, courtesy of a few pointers from Family Circle's special publication 333-Super Cakes & Cookies.

1) It isn't necessary to sift flour. Spoon it to overflowing into a measuring cup (don't pack or tap), and level off at top with knife or spatula.

2) Use only standard dry measures.

3) Always make level measurements.

4) Use all-purpose flour for baking recipes, unless otherwise specified.

5) Whole wheat flour is generally too heavy for delicate baked goods. It contains the entire wheat grain, including bran, so use only in recipes calling for it.

Citrus labels on display at show

Over 100 colorful labels for wooden citrus shipping crates will be on display in the new Citrus Museum put together for the 62nd National Orange Show, running from March 17 through March 27 in San Bernardino.

The labels, now collectors' items, were used by Southland citrus packinghouses until the 1950s, when the change was made to cardboard cartons. The labels were placed on both ends of the wooden shipping crates to identify the packinghouses, its location and the variety and grade of fruit.

The labels are part of an ongoing Orange Show program of compiling a collection of the labels from houses in San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange and Los Angeles counties, as well as some from Central and Northern California.

Some of the major items in the museum, located in the north end of the Hobby and Craft building, include a frozen fruit separator, a box making machine, a ladder, a lemon juice extractor, a wagon, smudge pots, fertilizer spreaders and picking sack and clippers.

Workshop to focus on women in business

A career workshop for women featuring 13 individual workshop-discussion sessions will be held at Cal Poly, Pomona from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 2.

Keynote speaker for the day-long workshop is Dorothy Kulvin, vice chairman of the Western Women's Bank of San Francisco.

All participants may elect to attend three of 13 workshops, including sessions on owning your own business; accounting, banking and real estate; education; law and politics; media, journalism and publishing; advertising and public relations.

Also non-traditional jobs; photography, art and design; social work, psychology and health; sales/merchandising and design; international affairs and working abroad; starting and re-entering the business world; integrating work and private life.

An enrollment fee will be charged.

Further information or reservations for the career day may be obtained by contacting Nancy C. Slaven, Cal Poly assistant director of career planning and placement and workshop coordinator, at 598-4281.
